POLITICAL.

Horatio Seymour on the Democratic Candidate.

A Hard Hit at the Cant About Reconciliation.

The Merchants of Philadelphia for Hartranft.

What Democratic Misrule Has Cost Delaware.

Yesterday's Political Gatherings in New-York City.

Hon. L. Bradford Prince.

In Queens County, First Assembly District, to-night, at the Town Hall, in Flushing, a meeting will be held to present to Hon. L. Bradford Prince an application signed by over 1,800 voters of the district, asking him to continue in the Assembly another year. These signatures represent all political parties, and include nearly all the leading men of the district.

Judge J. M. Van Cott will address the meeting on matters relating to the reform of the Judiciary, and Mr. Prince will make a report as to the local business of the district in the last Legislature.

Seymour and Greeley.

Horatio Seymour made a speech in favor of Horace Greeley a few days since, in the course of which he referred to the concealed correspondence of Carmichael, Greeley and Seymour with reference to making Mr. Greeley a candidate for the Presidency, paying pensions to rebels, &c. The Tribune, referring to Seymour's speech, says: "Mr. Seymour takes occasion to allude fittingly to the fading remnant of the Carmichael invention, in which his own name was frequently mentioned.

But the Tribune's own report of this fitting allusion is as follows:

"I have not had any personal intercourse with Mr. Greeley, nor do I expect to have. I can only stand up and urge you to vote for him as being a man who would subserve the best interests of his country by laying aside all personal pride, and who would unite the people of the land. I know that some have charged that at any early day his name was suggested by myself. I do not know the man who started this story. I only know that they do not seem to stand upon the strength of their own quality to back them with affidavits, which is a virtual admission that their words would not have been believed without them. Unfortunately, they were so foolish as to undertake to read Mr. Greeley's mind by writing, and because that he was in favor of pensioning the rebel soldiers, but upon a more careful reading they found that Mr. Greeley had written that in 1864 Mr. Chase ought to have been nominated instead of myself. This is as near as they came to the truth in their other charges."

It will be noticed that Mr. Seymour is very careful not to deny having corresponded with Greeley. All that he denies is any "personal intercourse." He seems to be equally careful not to deny unless in a blind, inferential manner, any of the statements as to the purport of the correspondence. When it is remembered that both the Tribune and Mr. Greeley have been equally careful not to give any explicit denial, and that though the letters are under their control, they refuse to publish them, we think the public will conclude that the published abstract is about correct.

Greeley's Cant About Reconciliation.

The Buffalo Express condemns Greeley's whining cant about reconciliation as sickening, because it is a sham. It says: "There is nothing in it but pretense. An honest citizen in the crowd at Pittsburg effectually 'squelched' Mr. Greeley's entire argument in four words. The orator was on his hobby, armed cap-a-pie, charging furiously to use as usual. Now I appeal to the men of Pittsburg, I appeal to her business men, I appeal to her merchants, I appeal to her manufacturers to stop this war," he cried. Upon which 'a man of Pittsburgh' shouted, 'It stopped itself yesterday.' That little pin let all the wind out of Mr. Greeley's great bladder with which he was to attack the Republican Party. That little pin, moreover, slew the Knight's hobby-horse and left the valiant humbug to flounder on as best he could. He may bestride its dead body many times again this Fall, and think he is making much progress and doing great execution: but that hobby's dead. It won't prance any more. This cruel war is over—'It stopped itself yesterday.'"

The Merchants of Philadelphia for Hartranft.

The Philadelphia North American published a long list of the names of merchants, manufacturers, bankers and business men of that city favorable to the election of Gen. Hartranft, and said: "False charges and abuse have done their worst, and now the business men of the city are beginning to appreciate the fact that Gen. Hartranft is worthy of their every confidence. Such an array of names, selected without special revision from a list immeasurably larger, does not admit of the accusations so frequently hurled from the enemy that Hartranft is the creature of a ring, and supported only by others base and corrupt. In this list we find bankers, manufacturers, merchants and professional men—not only above reproach, but also far above consenting to indorse any man of whose integrity they were not thoroughly convinced."

Democratic Misrule in Delaware.

Democratic rule has cost Delaware much. And there has been in that State a case of "family government" which the hypocritical Greeley Press might rail against with some show of justice. Major James R. Lofland made a speech in Wilmington, a few nights ago, in which he revealed some of it. He said: Delaware was free from debt in 1860, when the Democratic Party came into power, and now owes $1,100,000, which they say was a debt created to help the poor man, but which I say was the result of an unpatriotic purpose. The State has been ruled by one family, and it is high time a change was made; any change would be for the better. It could not be for worse. One member of the family has been twelve years in the United States Senate; another, Governor for six years; a law partner of the twelve years' Senator has been six years Secretary of State, and now asks to be sent to Congress. Another brother has commenced a Senatorial term of six years, and a brother-in-law is now the Governor of the State." That is Democratic "nepotism," and is worthy of Mr. Sumner's attention.

Hon. Edwards Pierrepont in Philadelphia.

Hon. Edwards Pierrepont will deliver an address before the Union League of Philadelphia this evening. From the reputation of the orator, there can be no doubt that the meeting will be large, and worthy the great Republican City of Philadelphia.

The Soldiers and Sailors.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Club of the Eighth Assembly District, held a mass-meeting at No. 26 Delancey-street, last evening, which was largely attended. Col. Spencer, William Gilliman, Charles Semsley, Col. L. H. Rowan and Capt. A. S. Doplanyi addressed the meeting. A Polish club was represented, and a large number of the German Republican organization of the same ward was present. The remarks of the speakers were loudly applauded and great enthusiasm was manifested.

Colored Republicans—Addresses to the Lincoln Club by Col. Thorpe, Mr. Lawson and Col. Morgan.

At a meeting of the colored Lincoln Club, at No. 12 University-place, last evening, addresses were listened to from Mr. John D. Lawson, Col. T. B. Thorpe and Col. J. B. Morgan.

Mr. Lawson, the first speaker, confined his address, which was brief and to the point, to the claims of the Republican Party to their support, and the reasons why they should dread and distrust the Greeley party.

Col. Thorpe spoke enthusiastically of the faithfulness of the negroes to the Union during the war, and the help they afforded our soldiers, and told his experiences in New-Orleans.

Col. F. B. Morgan also addressed the meeting, before the adjournment, and the speakers were given a hearty vote of thanks. The gathering was remarkable for the enthusiasm and good feeling manifested.

Banner-Raising in the Twenty-Second Ward.

The Seventeenth Assembly District Grant and Wilson Club last evening raised a magnificent banner across Eighth-avenue, at the corner of Forty-third-street. The gathering attending the affair was very large, including several ladies, and at the windows and on the roofs of the neighboring houses were also to be seen large groups of interested persons. The opening speech was made by Col. Joel M. Mason, who was followed by Gen. W. H. Anthon, Fred. T. Locke, Chas. H. Knox, Col. Peebles and Hon. Chas. A. Flammer. Several times during the speaking a gang of rowdies attempted to break up the meeting by shouting for Greeley, and during the speech of Mr. Flammer tried to get up a fight, which was promptly stopped by the Police and the offenders arrested. Col. Mason, at the close of the speeches, apologized to the meeting for the disturbance, ascribing it to its true cause, his remarks eliciting loud applause, ending in cheers for each of the speakers and for President Grant.

Grant and Wilson Banner-Raising by the Germans.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held last night at No. 41 First-avenue in celebration of the raising of a German Grant and Wilson banner. Dr. J. Treskatis called the meeting to order and nominated Mr. P. Kher as Chairman.

Mr. S. Schwartz was then elected Secretary.

Mr. Kehr referred in a few words to the evident fact that the Tenth Assembly District, having done well last year in defeating the Democratic ticket, meant to do better in electing a clean Republican ticket with increased majorities. He then introduced Capt. Alex. Toplany as the first speaker, whose telling words were interrupted by frequent and loud applause. Mr. Schreit next delivered a short address, and was followed by Dr. Treskatis, who, in a pointed manner, laid open the flimsy pretenses of the piebald conglomeration. He was followed by Mr. London, Dr. Hoeber, Col. Damm, and Mr. Lockwood. Long before this, however, it became necessary to organize an outdoor meeting, which was addressed by Col. Sage, P. Kehr, and others. The utmost harmony prevailed, and it was soon evident that the Tenth Assembly District will give a largely-increased majority for both the national and State Republican ticket.

General Notes.

A club was organized at No. 306 First-avenue furthering the interest of James O'Brien for Mayor, on Wednesday evening.

The Democrats and Liberals of the First District of Dutchess County yesterday nominated James Mackin for the Assembly.

The Republican Convention at Rochester, yesterday, nominated Hon. Freeman Clark for re-election to Congress for the Twenty-eighth District.

On Wednesday a vote was taken on the boat which conveyed a Methodist excursion party to Sea Cliff Grove. For Grant, 64; Greeley, 13; doubtful, 6.

A Philadelphia correspondent gives the following figures of the proportionate sale of New-York papers in the Quaker City: TIMES, 15; Tribune, 3; World, 1.

The Suffolk County Republican Central Committee organized Wednesday, electing E. A. Carpenter, of Sag Harbor, Chairman, and Geo. A. Buckingham, of Riverhead, Secretary.

The Republicans of the First Congressional District of this State hold a Convention at Jamaica, Wednesday, Oct. 9, to nominate a candidate for Representative in Congress.

The Pioneer Grant and Wilson Club of Newtown, Long Island, held an enthusiastic meeting in Association Hall, Wednesday evening, Hon. Allard Anthony and Dr. Gunn addressing a large assembly for that village.

The Grant and Wilson Club of New-Rochelle had an excellent meeting in the Town Hall, Wednesday evening, 25th inst. Addresses were delivered by Hon. William Fiero and Gen. William H. Anthon.

The First Queens County Assembly District Republican Convention will meet at the Court-house, North Hempstead, Thursday, Oct. 3. The Second Queens County Assembly District Republican Convention will meet at the same place, at the same time.

The Republicans of Cold Spring appear to be awake to the work of the campaign. On Tuesday evening Ex-Gov. Noble, of Missouri, addressed a large audience, under the auspices of the Grant and Dix Club; and another meeting is to be held on Tuesday evening next, Hon. Anthony Allaire having accepted an invitation to speak.

The Republican Convention of the City of Newark met yesterday afternoon at Library Hall, to nominate candidates for city offices. Mr. John C. Beardsley was unanimously renominated for the office of Water Commissioner, H. J. Poinier for Tax Commissioner, Dr. Ill for Trustee of Reform School, Harrison Van Duyne and Jacob Surerus for Supervisors of Highways.

Local Notes.

The German Republicans, at corner of Second-street and First-avenue, last night, raised a Grant and Wilson banner. Several enthusiastic addresses were delivered.

The Nineteenth Ward James O'Brien Association, last night, at Fifty-third-street and First Avenue, nominated Joseph Murray for Assistant Alderman.

A meeting of German Republicans was held last night at Forty-third-street and Eighth-avenue, where a Grant and Wilson banner was raised, in presence of a large and enthusiastic crowd.

The Seventh Ward Council of Political Reform held a social meeting at No. 230 East Broadway last evening. Several speakers addressed the audience in favor of political reform.

The Twentieth Ward Independent Working Men's Association met at Newman's Hall, in Ninth-avenue, last evening. Mr. F. Purcell and others made speeches in favor of Hon. James O'Brien for Mayor.

The Fifteenth Assembly District Republicans met last evening at No. 246 West Thirty-third-street. The room was full, and speeches were made by Hon. R. Sewell and Willet Denike, Jr. Mr. Lapaugh presided.

The Eighth Assembly District German Soldiers' and Sailors' Campaign Organizations held a meeting at No. 26 Delancey-street last night, and listened to addresses reviewing the situation of the National Republican campaign.

A number of delegates representing different German campaign clubs, formed for the purpose of organizing a campaign for the re-election of the present City Judge, met at the Germania Assembly Rooms last night, and elected officers.

The Grant and Wilson Campaign Club of the Sixth Assembly District met, last evening, at No. 400 Grand-street, Mr. Daniel F. Crowley, President, in the chair. A number of new members were admitted, and the usual routine business transacted.

The German Grant and Wilson Club of the Twenty-first Assembly District met in Third-avenue, near Seventy-seventh-street, last night, to complete the arrangements for a vigorous campaign on behalf of the National Republican nominations and the Republican State ticket.

The Twenty-second Ward Democratic Grant and Wilson Club met last evening, Christopher Bennett in the chair, and listened to spirited addresses by J. Condon, Thomas Carroll, and others. This organization now consists of nearly 200 members, and large numbers of Democrats are weekly joining its ranks.

A meeting of the house-owners of the Tenth, Eleventh and Seventeenth Wards was held last night at Concordia Hall, No. 28 Avenue A, John Ringelman, President, in the chair. Resolutions were adopted that this association either directly or indirectly would not support any nominee of Tammany Hall.

A meeting of Polish residents was held last evening in Peterson's Hall, Avenue A, to organize the Sobieski Society, which has for its object both patriotic and benevolent actions. Before the adjournment a resolution was unanimously passed pledging the Society to support Gen. Grant for the Presidency of the United States.

A new German Grant and Wilson Club was organized in the Twenty-first Assembly District last evening, and the following officers elected: President, Louis Reis; First Vice-President, Col. J. Weisz; Second Vice-President, Samuel Schile; Secretary, Ernst Blomberg; Executive Committee, W. Sierneman, Maximilian Patzaner, J. Breges.

At a largely-attended meeting of the Kaufman Worms Campaign Club of the Sixteenth Assembly District, held last night at No. 93 Second-avenue, Senator O'Brien said, if elected Mayor, he would do all in his power to reform the many abuses now existing in the Municipal Government, but that he would not make political speeches in the future, for reasons best known to himself.

THE STUMP CANDIDATE.

Mr. Greeley Called on to Explain His Bail-Bond.

He Loses His Temper in Pennsylvania—Disappointment and Fatigue Souring Him—The Alexandrians Refuse to Invite Him to the City—He is Not Thought Worth the Cost.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LOCK HAVEN, Sept. 26.—Mr. Greeley left Warren at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, on his tramp of reconciliation in that city, which has a very strong Republican majority. Mr. Greeley's reception was anything but cordial, and no Greeley and Brown clubs greeted his coming or departure. He slept at a private house last evening, and this morning, being anxious to speak, he was compelled, of necessity, to deliver his oration from the steps of the Grant Headquarters, the Carver House, the principal hotel in the city. In the course of his address he said:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: I am somewhat in the condition of opposition to many of my old friends, and they have discovered a great many bad things in me that had not before attracted their attention. Among others I venture to say you never heard it of me till a year ago that I was a secessionist, not much better than a rebel in the late struggle. I want to say a few words, not because it is of much consequence, but because it illustrates a feature of this contest, and others like this. For twenty years, beginning with the accession of Gen. Tyler to the Presidency down to the election of Abraham Lincoln, the Government was very generally in the hands of men opposed to me, whom I conscientiously thought leaned toward slavery more than it was their duty to do. I was opposed to them because they were trying to extend and maintain slavery. In all those years of opposition on my part to the rule and policy of the country, I defy any man to pick any one sentence I ever said or uttered which was at war with the ascendency and perpetuity of our Union. Tried as I was, tempted as I was, protesting as I did, I do not think I was ever tempted to indicate even impatience with the existence of the Union. It never seemed to me that disunion was any remedy for the evils whereby I thought we were encumbered. The men who are now assiling me as a disunionist, Fred. Douglass, William Lloyd Garrison and Wendell Phillips, were then earnest and bitter in their denunciations of the Union as a monstrous iniquity, and the Constitution as a covenant of death, declaring that emancipation should be sought over the ruins of the American Church and the American Union. I believe that at many celebrations on the 4th July they burned the Constitution to show their abhorrence of its character Now they call me a disunionist. What pretense have they for saying so? I say for this, that after my efforts had succeeded, after we had achieved power, though we had not yet clutched it, they say that I was willing to let the South go. These very men were saying all the time—Gen. Dix, Gen. Sickles and Gen. Winfield Scott—"If we cannot agree," they would say, "wayward sisters, let them depart in peace." That sentiment is has been ascribed to me. It was Gen. Winfield Scott who said it. These eminent citizens were all the time warring on the side of slavery. They said, "Rather than fight we will let them go." What I said was this. They endeavored to shut me up with this alternative: "You shall agree that the Southern half of the Territories shall be given up to slavery, or you shall be held responsible for the prosecution of a bloody civil war in this country." I tried all I could to avoid and escape the alternative of giving the Territories to slavery, which I was pledged not to do. I said "No, there is a third course open to us. I deny that the great mass of the Southern people are opposed to the Union. They don't mean to get out of the Union," and I said so over and over again. Doubtless, I said such words as I might better not have said. I said things in favor of our cause that, a Jefferson Davis says, "Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed." I would not have said it but for the highest duty to my country. At Pittsburg, a week ago, I explained this matter, but my words were perverted by my adversaries, who made me say that I was in favor of taking a vote to see whether the Southern States would go out of the Union or not. I never had any such thought. They wanted to bully us into giving up the Territories to slavery. I proposed another course, "Let there be a fair, full discussion before the Southern people of the advantages and disadvantages of the Union, and that discussion being had, they shall take a solemn vote. If they consent to go out of the Union, I will make no further objection, let them go." I believed I was doing the most to save the Territories from slavery and the Union from overthrow. That was my plan. Perhaps it was not an unwise one. I was not in any rash for me to do so. I considered only my country, and was only desirous of saving the Union and the Territories from suffering and boundless effusion of human blood. I don't believe that ten or twenty States have a right to break up this Union without the consent of the others. I always understood that the States formed a Government, not a mere league; that it was a union for all time; a country, not a combination—not some credit mobilier or plotting arrangement. I know what Madison said to Alex. Hamilton, when he proposed once, New-York not being ready to adopt the Constitution absolutely. "Suppose we get her to adopt it temporarily, with the right to recede from it if she don't like it." "No, no, no!" replied Madison; "it must be adopted for good and all, or it is no adoption." No man understood the Constitution better than he did who assisted in its formation. What I believe and teach is that there is no power to break up this Union anywhere in any faction or party of any size or strength. That matter has been settled by the arbitration of war.

Mr. Greeley was here interrupted in his speech, and asked "What he knew about bailing Jeff. Davis?" He said in reply:

Fellow-citizens: I am willing to say that I believe, in giving bail for the only prisoner left of the war, after he had been confined in jail two years, with nobody desirous of giving him a trial, though he sought it, that I performed a generous as well as genuine service to this American Republic. I believed the time had come to try him. The Constitution declares he expects as can as that every man is entitled to a speedy trial by his peers. He must not be kept in jail for trial and not granted it, and I believe I have done something toward bringing the North and South together by that act. It was but one man, but there were five millions of people who felt that while that man was imprisoned they were imprisoned. Many of them hated him, believing he had been a foolish, impracticable ruler, and they were full of bitterness against him, but they said, "So long as he is in prison we are in prison with him; so long as he is held for this offense we are held also." I believe in offering bail for that man. I not only saved the Government expense which keeping him in prison involved, besides drawing him out at stated periods with an array of lawyers who never intended to prosecute him, was an unnecessary expense, but that I did good service to the American people. Men talked about my shielding him and covering him. What I did was to say: "Gentlemen, I will fetch him whenever you want him. If you want to try him I am responsible for getting him when you want him." I thought somebody should have done it. I was not in a hurry to do it, because I knew how many enemies it would get me. But I said to his counsel, "If it is necessary, and you can't get any one else, I will do it." Cornelius Vanderbilt, who gave up his one million of dollars for the prosecution of the war, and Gerrit Smith, the greatest Republican in the Union, put their names down for his release. I said, "If that is not enough, put down my name," and it was put down. It made me a great many enemies, but it did something toward reconciling this people and getting us together. I am glad that I was called upon, even if it were necessary to meet denunciation and persecution for that act. If there are a million of people who denounce it today, there will be fewer in a year; in two years there will be still less, and in a few years there will be none; for the passions of war die, but the instincts, the necessities and affections of peace live forever.

At the several stations where Mr. Greeley passed on his way to Williamsport he was received with little enthusiasm, if not positive coldness. At Kane the only attempt at a cheer in his honor was made by a drunken loafer, who shouted, "Hurrah for Greeley; I am a Copperhead." There were no responsive cheers from the crowd, and the train was moved off quickly.

Alexandria, Va., Refuses to Invite Mr. Greeley to Visit the City.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The Common Council of Alexandria, last night, after a long discussion, refused to invite Mr. Greeley to visit that city, when he comes to Baltimore. On presentation of the resolution, one Councilman moved an amendment, providing that the city shall incur no cost thereby. He said Mr. Greeley had been here several times before, and came of his own accord. Why could he not come now, without the city going to an expense to entertain him. He was no more than any other man. Another member was surprised and utterly astonished at the gentleman who last spoke. Mr. Greeley was more than a common man. He was more than half a dozen men that he knew, and the people of Alexandria would do themselves honor in inviting him. Another said he was sorry the resolution had been introduced, but it would certainly not do to append such a condition to an invitation. An entertainment must be provided, and that would cost a good sum, especially if good wines were used. Finally the resolution of invitation was lost, though the Council is controlled entirely by Democrats.

A Tirade—The Philosopher Grows Ill-natured—The People Manifest Impatience First and then Indifference.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SUNBURY, Penn., Sept. 26.—Mr. Greeley reached Williamsport, Penn., at 5½ this evening, and telegraphic dispatches having been sent to his supporters in that city announcing his coming, an immense demonstration was in anticipation. The reality was indeed discouraging. Not even the customary crowd of idlers who present themselves upon his appearance generally, awaited his arrival, and instead of cheers he was greeted with ill-concealed merriment and some hooting. His reception afforded a remarkable constrast to that accorded to Ex-Gov. Harriman, of New-Hampshire, who a few hours later delivered an adduress of some hours' duration before one of the largest political gatherings ever seen in that city.

Mr. Greeley spoke from the balcony of a hotel. He referred to the fact that members of the Administration were, as he described it, running and racing from one end of the country to the other to persuade the people to keep them in office. [A voice—"That's like you, Horace." Laughter.] Mr. Greeley, not appearing to notice the interruption, continued: "I think that is something the whole people ought not to be reconciled to. Then, of course, like master like man, the whole body of office-holders, some fifty thousand of them, generally able and influential men, are devoting their time and talents to re-electing their superiors to office, and thereby keeping themselves in place. I venture to say that since the 1st of May last Federal office-holders have done more work and contributed more attention to keeping their places than to doing their duty. Now take my excellent friend, Gov. Harriman, who is here to make a speech for Grant and Wilson. He is Naval Officer of the port of Boston, a responsible position, with a good salary which he doubtless earns; but he is earning it speaking in Maine and Pennsylvania. How under Heaven can he earn the money we are paying him in that position of Naval Officer at Boston, while he is speaking all over the country. He is a good, capable man, but he ought to make his speeches on his own hook, as I do, and ought not to be paid for them out of the Treasury. Another point to which the people ought not to be reconciled. In all the elections ever held, from the time of Washington to the present, there has not been so much money spent by both parties as has in this election by the Grant party alone. They have their treasury at their back, his vast army of office-holders, their 2,000 millers, Moulder, with their large dividends, dividends five times as large as the capital invested. I tell you that right down in honest old Vermont, where the people never heard of money being paid before, their money was paid out like water to induce Democrats to vote for the Grant ticket or stay away from the polls. In Maine $100,000 was paid for votes, and if they succeed there it is because they have $100 to our one."

After more "reconciliation" Mr. Greeley concluded. At Sunbury Mr. Greeley delivered an address before a "mass-meeting" numbering about 800, which were convened by Gens. Banks and Sheridan. He asserted that if the political issues now before the country arising out of the late war were left to the settlement of the soldiers on each side, the country would have been pacified and reunited years ago. Those men respected each other for their gallantry, their soldiership and their courage, and a settlement would be quickly obtained none of the bitterness and prejudice which now exist. It was the aim of his life to unite these people, North and South, so that should danger ever again threaten their country, they would be found fighting side by side in the interest of the Union. Mr. Greeley spoke of the probabilities of the results of the elections in Pennsylvania and Indiana, claiming that unless those States were purchased they would declare for the coalition movement next October.

Mr. Greeley remains here to-night, and to-morrow will attend a mass-meeting at Scranton.

PRESIDENT GRANT.

Serenade to the President in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Sept. 26.—President Grant, accompanied by Gen. Porter, arrived in this city at noon today, and was waited upon by a large number of friends and politicians, among whom were Simon Cameron, Gen. Ochiltree, late of the rebel army; H. Buchersworpe and others. He gave a reception, and took by the hand all who were introduced. In the evening the merchants, who hap held a mass-meeting at Concert Hall, serenaded the President, and in reply to the calls he responded as follows:

GENTLEMEN AND MERCHANTS OF PHILADELPHIA: You have heard much better speeches to-night than I could make if I were so inclined. I am very glad to see you, and am pleased to hear that you have been to hear such fine speeches, and how you have been engaged to-night.

Messrs. Cameron, Buchersworpe and others made addresses, and the serenade was brought to a close.

CONNECTICUT.

Democrats Going Over to Grant—New-Haven Primaries Attended by Many of Them.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

NEW-HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 26.—The Republican primaries were held in this city last night, and in each of the seven wards there was a considerable attendance of Democrats. In the First Ward there were thirty Democrats, and they said by their spokesman that they had always been with the Democrats, but this Fall had determined to vote for Grant, and asked to be received as Democratic Grant men. In the other wards a number of Democrats took part. It is predicted that there will be a very general defection of Democrats in this city, and there are few Greeley Republicans. As it has been the Democratic majority in New-Haven which has carried the State two or three times, the Republicans feel perfectly confident of a good majority for Grant in November.

Murder and Suicide in Jersey City.

Last evening Jersey City was considerably excited over the news that a terrible tragedy had been enacted on the Heights. It appears that a German named Michael Guering, and his wife Mary, who lived in New-York-avenue, near Franklin-street, were in the habit of constantly quarreling, and last evening it is supposed that in a fit of passion he stabbed his wife, and afterward cut his own throat. Guering and his wife kept boarders, and at 9½ o'clock last evening, one of the boarders heard the noise of the quarrel and called in an officer. The officer discovered the woman lying dead on the floor of one of the rooms, stabbed near the heart. In a back room the wretched murderer was discovered with his throat cut in a fearful manner, the head being almost severed from the body. Guering was a laborer, about forty-eight years of age, and both he and his wife were of a very strong constitution. He leaves two children. An inquest on the bodies will be held this morning.

The Pattenburg Riot.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Sept. 26.—State Attorney Chamberlain, of New-Jersey, states, in relation to the riot at Pattenburg, Hunterdon County, N. J., Sept. 22, he notice was sent to the prosecuting attorney or Sheriff until Monday afternoon. The Sheriff and prosecuting attorney were at once to the place. The former and constable arrested all that could be found against whom there was proof of participation, some of the men having left the State before the Sheriff was informed of the riot. No resistance was offered, and there was no need of an extensive force of police or military. Upon being informed of the riot and murders by the authorities, Gov. Parker immediately issued a proclamation offering a reward of $500 for the apprehension and conviction of any of the murderers now at large.

THE INDIANA CAMPAIGN

Immense Republican Demonstration at Warsaw.

The Town Inundated with People—Remarkable Procession of Five Thousand Voters—Speeches by Gens. Logan, Hawley and Woodford and Col. Thompson.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WARSAW, Ind., Sept. 26.—Never has stronger proof of how deeply the great West is stirred by the dangers threatening the nation from the unholy alliance of Democracy and Greeleyism been presented than in this shire town of Northern Indiana today. From daylight until noon torrents of people poured into town from every quarter. They came by special trains from the surrounding counties of Allen, St. Joseph, Wabash, Elkhart, Whitley, Marshall, Fulton, Lagrange and Noble. They came by wagon, or on horseback, from every village, almost every farm, within twenty miles. They came en masse, men, women and children. Uncut corn was left to chance, mechanics dropped their tools, and the whole country-side hastened here as to the performance of religious duty. They came in the plain garb of every-day life, and in the neat uniforms of Tanners and Grant Clubs. They came bearing every specimen of the "Stars and Stripes," from garrison flags to miniature toy flags. They came with wagons gayly decorated, with horses caparisoned, with numberless bands of music; but, more than all else, they came possessed with enthusiasm for the Republican cause I have never seen equaled. Never have I heard anywhere in the land such lusty shouts for Grant and Wilson, nor seen so many thousand men so anxious to testify in every possible way the fervor of their political faith. Greeley, looking upon the 10,000 at Indianapolis, gathered by curiosity, and hearing hardly a vigorous cheer for him, declared next day in Ohio that he bore glad tidings from 50,000 Indianians. If this had been a demonstration in his honor, and he had witnessed it, he would have concluded that not a single Hoosier would vote against him. It is impossible to exaggerate the magnitude and spirit of this gathering, as it is impossible to overestimate its significance and effect.

AN AVALANCHE OF PEOPLE.

By noon the little town was choked, and an avalanche of people had tumbled out upon the adjoining open country, and only a small portion of those who had come many miles to look upon and make part of the pageant could find room on the streets of the town to see the procession in its entirety. After some delay in forming this great mass, the signal gun was fired, and it began moving through the streets and to the Fair Grounds, on an eminence beyond the village, where stands had been erected for speaking.

THE PROCESSION.

It is not necessary to describe this procession in detail, although it was one of the most notable ever seen in any campaign. Headed by a cavalcade of mounted men, in handsome uniforms, it had many prominent features, some pathetic, some grotesque, all suggestive. There was a printing-press, which threw off copies of a campaign song as it moved; a huge wagon carrying a harness-shop in full operation; a man on horseback representing Greeley on his Western tour; a wagon bearing the inscription: "We cannot turn our backs upon the past," on which was a soldier's grave with surrounding cedars, and over which bent a woman in widow's weeds; a wagon, the forward part of which was occupied by civilians seated at a table discussing politics, and which bore the label, "The New Way," and the back part of which had a label, "The Old Way," and was occupied by groups of soldiers, muskets in hand; a small buggy entirely empty was placarded "Liberal Party of Etna Township." In addition to all this, were thirty large wagons gayly decorated, each containing from twenty to fifty handsomely-dressed young ladies, and drawn by not less than six and some by as many as twenty horses. There were over two hundred country wagons crammed with men, women and children, while, both horse and foot, there were over one thousand uniformed Grant Guards and Tanners, every man a voter, and in these ranks were all ages, from the youth who is about to cast his first ballot, to the gray-haired grandsire, who has seen the wondrous political changes of the past fifty years. Counting all persons in procession, there were not less than 5,000, while four times that number gazed upon it from the streets and followed it to the grove.

IN THE GROVE.

Here preparations had been made to feed the multitude before the speaking commenced, immense booths being erected, where, at a trifling expense, a good meal could be obtained. After an hour had been spent about there, the speakers arrived, with a special escort, and the multitude gathered about the two stands. Never did orators have a grander audience, and never were orators more worthy of such honor, for here had come such true patriots as Gen. John A. Logan, of Illinois; Hon. Richard W. Thompson, of Indiana; Gen. Joseph R. Hawley, of Connecticut, and Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, of New-York, the two latter being reserved for the evening meeting in the Wigwam.

THE SPEAKING.

After excellent rendering of campaign songs by the glee clubs, one song being "Nothing Wears Like Leather," first published in the TIMES, Gen. Logan and Col. Thompson addressed immense crowds simultaneously from separate stands. Both are in the front rank of popularity, and each was so inspired by the occasion that he surprised himself. Logan delivered a masterly argument showing how the Republican Party have been instruments in the hands of Providence for the advancement of mankind in all that is ennobling. He sketched the terrible struggle of the war, and the greater burdens of reconstruction laid upon the Republican Party at its close and proved that it had always been true to its promises, to liberty and progress, and had always unselfishly sought the greatest good to the greatest number. The latter part of his speech dealt with the inherent immorality and danger to the nation of the Greeley alliance with his accustomed force and plainness. After a speech of two hours he concluded with an earnest appeal to his hearers to stand by their country in standing by Grant, and, taking his seat, was greeted with three times three rousing cheers, which made the old woods ring as they leaped from 10,000 throats.

Col. Thompson had meantime delivered one of those telling speeches for which he is famous. Years ago the foremost among Indiana statesmen, long a representative in Congress, a man who is often before people for public service, and never was he a better, but his hale old age his natural power has not abated, nor has his power over the masses diminished. He, as Logan had done, carried his audience by his scathing review of the iniquitous alliance now seeking to obtain possession of the Government. In closing, he made this pathetic reference to himself: "Four years ago I said to you that you would probably never hear my voice again, and I had intended never again to engage in political strife. Then, as now, I had so far advanced in years that I had no desire for further political preferment, and did, and do, intensely long for rest. But, fellow-citizens, the country is in danger, and I cannot rest quiet in my home while the Democratic Party is trying to seize the Government of my country under false pretenses."

BACK TO TOWN.

After the conclusion of these two speeches, amid music of bands and firing of cannon, the multitude poured back into the town, choking up the streets again; and as I write, thousands are in the streets below, cheering constantly and lustily for Grant and Wilson, for Tom Brown, and for Gen. Logan. It is a good-humored crowd, for it patiently endures in its midst drunken Greeleyites, who hiccough for Greeley with great persistence. The day has closed, and exercises of the evening are about to commence, without a single accident or untoward incident having occurred to mar this great demonstration that Republicanism is far stronger in Northern Indiana than its most sanguine friends had dared to hope.

NIGHT SCENES—THE WIGWAM.

Night came, but not darkness, for the streets were ablaze with thousands of torches forming in a procession greater here, in this rural village, than the display was which greeted Greeley at Indianapolis after long and strenuous preparation. After a parade of an hour the procession halted at the wigwam, already densely packed with more than 4,000 people. A banner was presented to delegation turning out the largest number of voters, and was given to the Fort Wayne Tanners, who came from the strong Democratic County of Allen.

Quiet being restored, Gen. Woodford, of New-York, proceeded to address the vast audience in the wigwam, and spoke for an hour and a half in his happiest style. He appealed with great force for the continued power of the Republican Party as necessary to the peace and prosperity of the nation. Long before he closed he had captured his hearers, and was often interrupted by vociferous cheering. He was followed by Gen. Hawley, of Connecticut, who never did more effective service for his country than to-night, when he delivered one of the most powerful arguments ever presented in behalf of the Republican Party. He took hold of the audience and lifted them up to the intensity of enthusiasm.

At a late hour the meeting adjourned, with great cheering for Grant and Wilson, Brown and the whole State ticket. Even then quiet came not to the the town, but the streets are still filled by cheering throngs, and the Republican jubilee bids fair to be protracted until daylight.

Stirred thus to the very foundation, Northern Indiana gives indubitable evidence that "Liberalism" has no hold among that people, and that the Republicans will have a majority in October larger even than has been anticipated. Much has been expected of this section, but this unprecedented demonstration shows that even more will be received. E. C.

CRICKET.

The Englishmen in Boston—A Close Contest to be Left Unfinished.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—Cricket has experienced a temporary revival here within the past few days, owing to the promised visit of the famous "English Gentlemen Eleven," and the preparations of local cricketers to received them suitably. The responsibility of getting together the necessary twenty-two players was undertaken by the Winnisimmett Cricket Club, from which organization a number of players was selected, three of the Boston base-ball nine being also included. The game was commenced on the base-ball ground today, shortly after noon, the attendance of spectators being very large, although the earlier part of the day had been showery and threatening, which, although wetting the grass, did not interfere with the fielding, which was very fine on both sides.

The twenty-two went first to the bat and scored 51. The Englishmen followed and had barely tied their opponents when the last wicket fell, Mr. Grace making 26, the highest single score.

In the second inning the twenty-two made 43, and then the Englishmen went again to the wickets, and when the stumps were drawn they had scored 22, with the loss of six wickets, including that of Mr. Grace, who was caught out after making five runs.

This ends the game, as no further play can take place in Boston, the Englishmen leaving for Quebec to-morrow, en route for home.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 27—1 A. M.—The barometer has risen from Missouri to Lakes Michigan and Superior, but thence southward and eastward to the Gulf and Atlantic coasts it has generally fallen, being now lowest north of the lower lakes. Cloudy weather, with areas of light rain, is now prevailing from North Carolina to the southeastern portion of New-York; fresh to brisk winds over the lake region. The winds have diminished in force over the upper lake region.

PROBABILITIES.

For New-England south-easterly and south-westerly winds, cloudy weather and probably rain areas, the former veering to north-westerly, with clearing weather during the afternoon and night; for the Middle States westerly and north-westerly winds, and clear and clearing weather; from Kentucky to Lake Erie and the the upper lakes westerly and north-westerly winds and clear weather, the winds backing to southerly over the North-west; for the South Atlantic and Gulf States partly cloudy weather; fresh to brisk to north-westerly winds for the lower lakes, but diminishing in force. The midnight telegraphic reports from New-England, and the majority of those from the South Atlantic and Gulf States and the upper lake region, are missing.

THE BIENVILLE.

Examination of Witnesses by the New Board—The Testimony.

The Bienville investigation was resumed yesterday morning, before the new Board—Inspectors Boole, Hill and Mershon—at No. 23 Pine-street. The proceedings were open to the public, and the testimony was taken before some visitors, among whom was Inspector J. K. Matthews, the person who inspected the Bienville's boilers, and was thereby disqualified for service on this Commission of Inquiry. The witnesses examined were the first assistant engineer, who was questioned by Mr. Matthews, and the boiler-maker who put in and set the Bienville's boilers.

William H. Best, first assistant engineer of the Bienville on her last voyage, testified that he joined her ten or twelve days before her departure from this port; was the 18th of August he was on the watch from twelve to four o'clock; his first knowledge of the fire was when, going from the engine-room to the deck, the Captain and chief engineer told him "to turn on the steam in forward, between decks, as the ship was on fire;" he did so; the chief engineer then gave orders to stop the engines and start the donkey-pump; it was run thus from five to eight minutes, when the engine stopped, because the rocker which connects the two piston-rods had broken; this was irremediable; on learning this Capt. Maury said to the chief engineer, "What men have you to spare? you'd speed as many as you can to the donkey-pump;" eight were dispatched, and as she was making steam faster than it could be blown into the hold, the watch was sent forward to shove the fires back; about half an hour later witness sent the men aft to bring the fires forward and shut the doors, and steam came up to twenty-five pounds pressure; then sent the third assistant, to go down and see if he could find any fire around the boilers; he returned with a negative answer, adding that smoke was coming through the bulkhead; witness becoming satisfied of this, went up to Capt. Maury, who ordered him to take his men and get the large boat, alongside on the upper deck, alongside the wheel-house; found second mate getting boats on davits ready for launching; the forward boat had already been launched; Capt. Maury ordered witness to step into and take charge of that boat when she was ready; the Quartermaster and two sailors were in her; hauled up to the step-ladder and began to put women and children into her until they numbered twenty-two; witness was then told to take his boat to windward and lay there until the Captain left the ship, then to follow him; this was done when the Captain and engineer left; all the provisions in witness' boat were two heads of cabbage and three gallons of water; there was no compass; it was a metallic life-boat about eighteen or twenty feet long; those on board of her were the ship's doctor, chief steward, steerage stewardess, two firemen, two coal-passers, one sailor, quartermaster, witness, four ladies, six children from thirteen weeks to thirteen years old and two men; the boat had a rudder and four oars, but no sails; the Captain's boat was lost sight of about midday on Thursday, 15th; witness steered by the sun in the day and the moon at night; land was made on Friday afternoon at four o'clock, but could not land until Saturday at eleven A. M. on Eleuthera Island; the provisions were all gone.

On cross-examination the witness stated that he thought both pumps forward and aft were in good condition; he knows the fire-hose aft where the fire originated except what the quartermaster had told him—that it must have begun about fifteen feet forward of the bolier; he was ordered to leave, and put wet tarpaulin over the hatch; the donkey-pump had been used when the crew were exercised by a false alarm of fire; it was then in good order. Witness likewise stated that the captain had promised to come alongside of the boat toward night, when the sea went down, to give them more provisions, but he did not, and his boat was out of sight in the evening; all we got from the captain was a demijohn of water, which he flung to us early in the day. In speaking of the condition of the boilers and engines between them and the bulkhead, witness said that the back part of the boilers was double; thought there was from four to six inches space filled in with sawdust; the bulk-head was made of two-inch plank covered with sheet-iron on perpendicular strips; sawdust was between as a non-conductor of heat; he thought the bulkhead was two feet from the boiler; the sides, however, were not so far distant. The cross-examination was continued for some time without eliciting any more than the above other than the statement that the boat had been capsized in the surf, whereby nine persons were drowned; only thirteen reached the beach.

J. H. McOurdy, builder of the steam engines and boilers, of No. 74 and 76 Broad-st., was next examined and testified that the boilers of the Bienville were built and put into her by him early last August; they were return-flue boilers, about twenty-eight feet long. He then gave a description of how they were put in and set. Witness said that these boilers looked better than any others the Bienville had ever had before; there was more space between the boilers and bulkhead, and they were better protected on the after end with sheet-iron so as to prevent the bulkhead from being injured by heat, than most other vessels are. The same was said of the sides. Speaking of the donkey-pump, witness said that during the last three years he had seen it used several times and observed that it always worked well.

The investigation then adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock, when the chief engineer of the Bienville, Mr. Dayton, the freight agent, and Mr. Anthon will be heard.

THE BURNETT MURDER.

Exciting Scenes at the Inquest—What a Policeman Overheard.

Coroner Herrman held an inquest, yesterday, in the case of Joseph Burnett, the Swedish stevedore, late of No. 200 Madison-street, who was stabbed to the heart with a pair of tailors' shears, and almost instantly killed, by Timothy Landers, his brother-in-law, during a fracas on Sunday evening, at No. 76 Jackson-street. The widow of the murdered man was present at the inquest, and was terribly agitated at the loss of her husband, and that her two brothers were in custody, charged with his murder. During the examination the wife of Timothy Landers fell to the floor in a swoon, and a great deal of excitement was caused by the counsel for the accused charging the Coroner with unfair treatment in admitting certain evidence to which he had interposed an objection, and threatening to cite the Coroner before the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Catharine Burnett, the widow of deceased, testified that the accompanied her husband to the house of her sister, No. 76 Jackson-street, to attend a christening; her brothers, Timothy and Garrett Landers, came in; Garrett and her husband shook hands; Timothy and her husband had some words and came to blows; Garrett took part in the fracas and both struck the deceased; after the fight the woman, Timothy, taking a pair of shears from the mantel-shelf, followed him, accompanied by Garrett; the next she saw of her husband he was lying across the threshold of her sister's room, with the blood flowing from the wound; he died soon after; there had been a previous difficulty between her husband and her brother Timothy about money matters.

Several other witnesses were examined, and although they saw the difficulty none of them witnessed the stabbing.

Officer James Parrish, of the Thirteenth Precinct, testified that he found a pair of scissors on the mantel-shelf in the room of Timothy Landers, at No. 39 Park-street; Timothy confessed that he took the scissors from his sister's apartments; he denied stabbing Burnett and said his brother had done it; overheard a conversation between the prisoners, in which Garrett said, "If they say you did it they lie, you have stuck to me well; I will stick to you if I have to sell my place out;" heard Garrett say, "I did it with a knife and threw the knife away."

Officer James Johnson, of the Thirteenth Precinct, testified that he arrested Timothy Landers, who denied stabbing the deceased, but admitted that he had struck him with his fist; during a conversation with James Crowley, Timothy was overheard to say, "He called me a ——, and I give it to him; I'll not allow no Dutchman to call me a —— without giving it to him."

The case was then submitted to the jury, who rendered a verdict against Timothy Landers as the principal, and his brother, Garrett, as accessory to the murder. Both the prisoners were then committed to the Tombs to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The Ring Frauds.

A motion is to be made today to quash the indictments against the members of the Ring, who have been indicted for frauds, on the ground that the indictments charge no definite crime against the accused. The charges are: A. Oakey Hall, five indictments for misdemeanor; Wm. M. Tweed, two for forgery, two for grand larceny, and one for conspiracy; Thos. C. Fields, one for bribery and corruption; Henry W. Genet, one for forgery; Wm. H. Cooke, two for forgery and two for grand larceny; James W. Ingersoll, for larceny; Albert A. Woodward, two for forgery, and two for grand larceny; Hugh Smith, one for conspiracy; Peter B. Sweeny, one for conspiracy; James M. Sweeny, one for conspiracy; Nathaniel Sands, one for misdemeanor.

The Trial of Frederick Heggi Continued—The Poison Found—Siegfried's Will.

The trial of Frederick Heggi, for the poisoning of Frederick J. Siegfried, was resumed yesterday morning in the Court of General Sessions, the Recorder presiding. The cross-examination of Dr. Hermann Endemann, the chemist, was resumed, and the witness described at length the processes of his analyses of the portions of Siegfried's body, and exhibited a number of small glass tubes containing the arsenic, in various forms, which he obtained from the brain, liver, stomach, muscles, &c., of the deceased.

Mr. M. Bostwick, of the Surrogate's Office, produced to the will of Siegfried and the inventory of his property made by his executor, the prisoner, Heggi. The will is dated Newark, Aug. 3, 1869, and in it the testator states that he "gives to his beloved friend, Frederick Heggi, all of his estate, consisting of $2,500 in money in the Dime Savings Bank in Newark," and names him sole executor. The witnesses to the will were Frederick Somers and George Barthel. [Somers was the notary who drew up the will, and has since died.]

The inventory of personal property made by Heggi, as executor, and attested by the appraisers of the Surrogate's office, was also introduced, stating that the effects consisted of the $2,500 already mentioned, $300 deposited with one Augustus Friedbaum and $5,000 secured on bond, some articles of furniture.

Coroner Young testified to the disinterring of the body, and Dr. Vandewater, of the Park Hospital, the last witness for the prosecution, was introduced merely to prove the effect of arsenic.

The widow of the deceased was called by the defense to prove the fact that Seigfried married her in 1859, but quarreled with and left her in 1869. Conrad Zang, George Buzzard and Frederick Schmidt testified to Seigfried's being ill at Newark, and being cared for by Heggi, and to the general good character of Heggi. Solomon Mantz swore that Seigfried told him that Heggi had readered him services, and would be remembered in his will. The case will be continued today.

THE REPUBLICAN WOMEN.

Great Meeting in Tremont Temple, Boston—Enthusiastic Indorsement of the Republican Tickets, National and State—Eloquent Speeches.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—The Republican women of the State, and their friends, held a meeting in Tremont Temple, last night, to rejoice over the adoption of the woman's suffrage plank in the Conventions at Philadelphia and Worcester, and to ratify the nominations of Grant and Wilson, and Washburne and Talbot. This was the first meeting of the kind in the Commonwealth, and excited such interest that the hall was crowded at an early hour and hundreds were turned away from the doors for want of room. The ladies were greatly in the preponderance in the hall.

Lucy Stone called the meeting to order, and Rev. James Freeman Clarke was made Chairman. He expressed his gratitude to the women of Massachusetts that he was able to come there and assist their movement in any way. It was a great occasion. It had come upon them so suddenly, so unexpectedly, the progress of the cause of woman had been so rapid, that the best and most hopeful scarcely expected so soon what had been already accomplished. They met for the first time in Massachusetts to take part in political action. Not to ask for political rights, but to use their rights. They came to give their influence to Gen. Grant and the Republican Party. They sympathized with them, on the whole that it would be best for the country that President Grant should be re-elected and the Republican Party be continued in power. The reason why, on the whole, it was better the Republican Party should continue in power was that Gen. Grant could better be trusted with the administration of the affairs of the country than his opponent. Perhaps the Democrats were converted. He hoped they were. Perhaps the South was reconstructed. It might be, but he thought it would be safer to wait a little before they accepted the statements. He did not mean to vote for either Mr. Greeley or Mr. Sumner, but he sincerely hoped, now that the women had come to speak on the question, that they would be more just and more free to their sentiments than men had been. In conclusion, Mr. Clarke congratulated the Republican women of Massachusetts that the Worcester Convention had advocated their cause.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe said the nation owed a great debt of gratitude to Gen. Grant, and the women, with the nation, were his glad and grateful debtors. When she was a child she knew the difference between a doll and a baby to be that one had a head of its own, while the other had a head that had been fastened on. So she thought it was now with the two parties before the country. The one had a head of its own, that belonged to it, and had grown upon it, while the other had a head that had been fastened on. The one was a living organization, and, like a woman, she took the living thing to her breast and thanked God for it. The other she called a poor imitation, a composite toy. As to Mr. Wilson, he had been their friend when they wanted friends most, long before the woman-suffrage movement began to be a little fashionable and a little popular. In the days gone by, when he had come behind the scenes and encouraged them, Lucy Stone had told him that in the good time coming, when woman had her rights and the nation made up its jewels, she would not forget Henry Wilson. And now her words were coming true, and he was to be the second jewel in the country's diadem.

Miss Eastman then read an address to the women of America, and letters were read from Geo. Wm. Curtis, Geo. F. Hoar, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Lydia Maria Child and Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, heartily approving the objects of the meeting.

Mrs. Livermore said she should not agree with Mr. Clarke in what he had said in regard to the present being a personal question. She thought it was, and for one she wanted to see Gen. Grant re-elected and nobody else. She wanted the Republican Party kept in power, and no other. She wanted to see the sham coalition which had put up Mr. Greeley as a candidate for the Presidency put so deep into the ground that the trump of the archangel Gabriel could never raise it again. She wanted to see the friends of woman elected next November, not by a few votes only, but by such an overwhelming majority that the other parties would never be heard of again. The one party had recognized women, the other ignored them and treated them with contempt in this campaign as it always had done. It spoke well of Horace Greeley she could not be otherwise than personal. She didn't like him, she could not. As for President Grant she thought it was something that with all the slanders that had been heaped upon him he could still hold his tongue, keep about his business, and say nothing to anybody. Such a man had come out of it cleaner, truer and better than we had ever believed he could. She felt that the Republican Party did not really need the help of women to carry their election in November. They had not put the clause recommending woman suffrage in their platform for the purpose of wheedling them to do the work for them. Women were at work for the re-election of Grant and Wilson all over the country, and stood side by side with Republican committees, speaking if they were wanted to, writing if asked to do so, and keeping silence when so requested. In conclusion, Mrs. Livermore urged every woman in Massachusetts to see to it that she won one vote for the Republican Party.

Speeches were also made by Mrs. Harper, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Bowles, and Henry B. Blackwell.

The Republican caucus, held to-night, guarantee the nomination of Hon. Wm. Whiting in the Third Congressional District. Mayor Gaston will probably be the Democratic nominee.

A Formidable Naval Adjunct.

An iron torpedo-boat of peculiar construction is being built at the Navy-yard. Her dimensions when completed will be: Length, 171 feet; beam, 28 feet; depth, 16 feet. Her deck will be four feet above water, and she will have four-inch iron armor. Her armament, besides the torpedo, which will project on a boom from her long plough-share shaped bow, will consist of one 15-inch gun, shooting forward. She will be propelled by the Fowler wheel, driven by a compound engine, and working on an upright shaft. The wheel will work horizontally under the after part of the hull, and will be arranged so as to obviate the necessity of a rudder.

M. Louis Blanc on the French Republic.

The Republicans of Roubaix having written to M. Louis Blanc to know whether he approved of their intention to hold in Belgium the banquet they were forbidden to have in France, M. Louis Blanc has dissuaded them from taking that step in the following terms:

GENTLEMEN: Imperious family duties having called me to England, where I am obliged to remain some time longer, I could not, in any case, have accepted your kind invitation.

As to your idea of crossing the frontier, in order to celebrate in Belgium the anniversary of the 4th of September, I am not sure—since you ask my opinion—that such a step would be altogether advisable, were the enemies of the Republic to construe it into an act of open hostility toward the President of the Republic.

Not that I approve of the prohibition of the intended banquets—far from it!

I can well understand that the situation in which unexampled disasters have placed our country makes it more important than ever to avoid anything calculated to inflame passions and to disturb the public peace. But when I consider that calm prevails in people's minds, that the necessity of order is everywhere recognized, and that the Republican Party is not the one which has shown itself least moderate, and has made the fewest sacrifices for this necessity of order, I wonder that a Government which styles itself Government of the Republic should be made so uneasy by the peaceful celebration of a Republican anniversary.

This excessive uneasiness seems to betray a remnant of that fear with which liberty used to inspire in France the Monarchical power.

Such a fear, persistent recourse to exceptional measures which circumstances have ceased to require—may, to explain—and indefinite prolongation of the state of siege—that is to say, of a régime which puts at the mercy of military authorities the most precious guarantees of the citizen—all this is contrary to the genius of the Republic; and if all this were to continue those who felt themselves satisfied would abandon the substance for the shadow, would mistake the word for the thing. LOUIS BLANC.

A Dog Story.

To the Press, published at Salem, Washington County, this State, is to be credited this story of a dog: "Last Saturday night, as James Donnelly was coming up the railroad track followed by his dog, the midnight train came along. The dog, instead of leaving the track as a prudent and sagacious dog would have done, turned around and faced the coming train and began barking at it. The train came rushing on, and though Donnelly called his dog, it maintained its position, and the result was that the train run over it, dividing its body into equal parts. The strangest part is yet to be told. The train passed on, and Donnelly called the dog, and the part that had the head on crawled toward him ten feet, the other half remaining on the track."

THURSDAY, Sept. 26—P. M.

The sales of Gold in the forenoon were at 113⅛@114 P cent. At noon the Bearish clique in Stocks bid for $4,000,000 Gold at the Treasury at 114.05@114.07 P cent. by way of menace to lock up nearly five millions Currency in the Treasury, if their bids, (there were three or four of them through their different Broker firms,) should all be accepted. The Treasury sold only the single million, as advertised in the September programme. The subsequent sales of Gold in the open market were at 114 P cent. The other bids at the Treasury amounted to $2,060,000—making the offers altogether $6,060,000.

Money was made active by the contest on Stocks, and manipulations of the market which have been going on for several days past. The Bearish people feel their punishment on Erie, Panama and Pacific Mail, and their want of success in driving down other Stocks to panic prices, so acutely that extra efforts are made to tighten Money. Their control of large balances for this object is supposed to have been somewhat relaxed since last week by the heavy Cash differences which they have had to "shell out" to Mr. Daniel Drew, Capt. Stockwell and others, on Erie, Pacific, &c., so that their repeated [illegible] of "looking up" Greenbacks have lost part of their terrors over the bullish operators. While all this may be so in regard to the artificial stringency in Money, it is not questioned, on the Street or at Bank, that the pressing demand for accommodations in nearly all the interior markets, including Boston and Philadelphia, is producing here a very cautious policy on the part of lenders except in using their balances from day to day, strictly on call. They decline nearly all time operations on Stock collateral. The only loans in this way, of which we hear, are made of Exchange on London instead of Money. Trade paper not accommodated at 7 P cent. at Bank is selling 8 to 12 P cent. per annum. Some of the Brokers paid a small bonus on call loans today, as on Wednesday, but as a rule 7 P cent. Currency to 7 P cent. Gold Interest were the rates.

The advance of interest to 4½ P cent. by the Bank of England had no other effect than to stiffen the rates for Sight Exchange on London to 109@109½ P cent. The sixty days rates continued at 107¼@107⅝ P cent.

At the Stock Exchange the contest continued pretty lively on the Railroads and Miscellaneous Stocks today. In the forenoon the business done was not so large as the sales of yesterday. The turn of prices was, for the greater part, downward from the last few quotations of Wednesday. The Bearish clique, operating for a decline in other Stocks, were reported again free sellers of one of their own "investments," Northwest Preferred, of which Stock they were caught long some time ago, at high figures. They sold the Stock down last evening to 88@87@85⅜ P cent., and this morning to 85@84⅞ P cent. Pacific Mail, Western Telegraph, North-west Common, Lake Shore and many other Stocks were pretty severely hammered, on the talk of "tight Money," but the truth seems to be that a very large daily demand for these Stocks, as in the recent experience in Erie, is created, irrespective of the Money Market, by the unusually heavy short interest among the Brokers.

In the Afternoon the turn of the Stock speculation was upward, and the general market worked stronger for such Stocks as Pacific Mail, Western Telegraph, and the Western Roads. There was less firmness in Erie Stock, the "corner" on which has been relaxed for the moment. The fight on Pacific Mail has been quite spirited throughout the day. Even down to half-past 1 o'clock, the purpose and preference to sell the Stock for a decided break from yesterday's advance, appeared to be in the ascendent. A round offer was made by a Broker of the Bearish clique, to sell 10,000 shares Cash, at 70⅜ P cent. in the Exchange Room, which there was no buyer present to take in a single line. But the market from that hour went gradually up to 71⅛@73@72¾ P cent., and finally closed as in the quotations below.

The following prices were made on the general market, as compared with Wednesday night. The Public Funds were dull. The rates for Money left off easier, 6@7 P cent. on balances lent over night.

By the last mails from London we notice that Messrs. Baring have brought on the market £1,000,000 Sterling, or $5,000,000 of the new Baltimore and Ohio Loan at 97 P cent., and Messrs. J. S. Morgan & Co. have brought out £1,200,000, or $6,000,000 of the Allegany Valley Railroad Loan under guarantee of the Pennsylvania Road at 88 P cent., or £176 for each Bond of £200,000. The Bonds bear 6 P cent. Sterling in London, or 7 P cent. Currency in Philadelphia. A letter accompanies the proposals of the Loan from the President of the Pennsylvania Road to the effect that "so far from the guarantees being, or likely to become a burden to his Road," the lease is a source of direct and large annual profit.

Messrs. Henry Clews & Co. send us the following memorandum in regard to the Cedar Rapids Loan:

"After a rigid examination by the Governing Committee of the New-York Stock Exchange they have admitted, by a unanimous vote, the First Mortgage Seven P Cent. Gold Bonds issued by the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Minnesota Railroad Company to the regular call of the Board for daily dealings. The facility thus afforded to sell these Bonds, it at any time desired by the holders, places them, as a security, on a footing with the Bonds issued by old Roads."

A correspondent, writing from his own Threadneedle-street experience, kindly corrects an error into which we were inadvertently led the other day in comparing our Bank Certificates to the "Crossed" Cheeks used in England. He thus explains the use of the latter:

"A draws a check in favor of B, and crosses it with the name of the bank where the latter keeps his account. If he is ignorant of it, he simply writes '& Co.' This is done that cash for the check may not be obtained by anyone not entitled to receive it, but must be passed through a bank, and consequently the Clearing-house.

B, upon receiving the check, if A has not crossed it, invariably does so himself. It sometimes happens that the drawer of a check will cross it when the drawee has no banking account. He cannot receive the amount personally, but must pass it through the account of another party, or the drawer will indorse the check under the words 'pay across the counter,' and the bank on whom it is drawn will pay it, the same as if it had never been crossed."

The Stock Exchange has admitted the following Stocks and Bonds to official dealings:

First Mortgage 6 P cent. Gold Bonds, the Second Mortgage 7 P cent. Currency Bonds, and the stock of the Pacific Railroad of Missouri; the stock of the Kansas Pacific Railway; the bonds and stock of the Louisville, Cincinnati and Lexington Railroad Company; the bonds and stock of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company; the 7 P cent. Convertible Bonds of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company; the 7 P cent. Consolidated Mortgage Gold Bonds of the Erie Railroad Company; the First Mortgage 7 P cent. Gold Bonds of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Minnesota Railway Company; the scrip of the Chicago and Alton Railway Company; was placed on the regular call after the stock of the same Company.

In the matter of the New-Jersey Central and Delaware and Lackawanna Companies, referred to yesterday, the Vice-Chancellor of New-Jersey has directed an answer to be made by the former Company at Newark, Oct. 7. Mr. Moses Taylor has sent the following note to the President of the New-Jersey Central:

SECOND CAMPAIGN EDITION OF THE
NEW-YORK TIMES.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Our second campaign edition is now ready. It is a paper of great value and interest, containing many articles especially written for it, and a very large collection of SHORT QUOTATIONS from the best letters and speeches which have been published during the canvass. These selections are pithy and full of point, and must prove of great service to clubs, speakers, and newspapers. They have been prepared with great care, and names and dates are carefully given in every case. The general contents render this the most effective campaign paper ever issued, and one which is indispensable to Republicans throughout the country.

Among the interesting features of this edition may be included the following:

1. An article bringing together the outrageous slanders upon Gen. GRANT which have been circulated under the authority of HORACE GREELEY, either in his own paper or his other organs—together with an incontestable refutation of these slanders.

2. Mr. GREELEY'S letters recommending bad men for office, showing the real drift of his sentiments as a "Civil Service Reformer."

3. A reply to the attacks upon Gen. HARTRANFT, Republican candidate for Governor in Pennsylvania.

4. GREELEY and TWEED—their partnership in a tobacco manufacturing company. The proofs and the facts, showing GREELEY'S close and secret alliance with TWEED during the reign of the "Boss."

5. DOOLITTLE: His dishonesty and bad faith. Portrait of a sample Greeleyite.

6. REUBEN E. FENTON: A short sketch of a career which began in embezzlement, and was succeeded by corruption of the worst kind. FENTON'S exploits as a dishonest clerk and a corrupt Governor will be partially described in this article—an article rendered necessary by the fact that FENTON would hold a very high office if GREELEY could insure his own election.

7. GREELEY'S Secession Record: A list of his utterances on that subject, with examples from 1860 to 1872.

8. The OAKES AMES Slander, invented by the Sun and New-York Tribune, fully disproved.

9. The Cincinnati platform and address, with notes by HORACE GREELEY. A very interesting and curious article, well worthy of preservation.

10. Gen. DIX'S famous order: Who wrote it? The truth on the subject.

11. A selection in short and spithy paragraphs, from the best speeches and letters which have been published during the canvass. These quotations would alone render the campaign edition of great value to the Republican cause all over the country. They include paragraphs, bright and pungent, from the speeches and writings of WILLIAM LLOYD GARRISON, GERRIT SMITH, FREDERICK DOUGLASS, RICHARD H. DANA, Senator CONKLING, Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER, Dr. LIEBER, Senator MORTON, Vice-President COLFAX, Judge HOAR, Judge STELLO, Senator FERRY, Attorney-General WILLIAMS and others. Whenever anything of force has been spoken or published, we have extracted the best part of it and reserved it for this special edition.

The edition consists of four pages, price three cents a single copy, or $2 per hundred, and $20 per thousand. Orders should be sent in without delay, as we can only supply them according to the dates at which they are received.

Mr. WEED'S state of health will not enable him to complete his annotations upon GREELEY'S celebrated letter, and therefore we cannot publish it in this edition.

Mr. GREELEY, as he works around toward home, is getting hysterical over the prospect. Yesterday he complained, in one of his harangues, that "in Maine one hundred thousand dollars was paid for votes, and if they (the Republicans) succeeded there, it is because they have one hundred dollars to our one." But this won't explain the approaching Republican triumph in Indiana, for only last Wednesday Mr. GREELEY told a little crowd of the citizens of that State:

"I have faith in the good people of Indiana. I do not believe they can be bribed out of their convictions, and I am quite certain they cannot be bought."

It will be worth while for Mr. GREELEY to remember this a week from Tuesday night. Will the Professor "make a note on't?"

An inquiry into the present management of the Erie Railroad will very properly arise out of the course pursued recently by Mr. S. L. M. BARLOW and his Tribune friends. It will be found that the shareholders in that concern are not one whit better off now than they were under the old management—that BARLOW & CO. have taken good care to protect their own interests. If the facts already before us are correct, as we believe them to be, the Tribune people will be rather sorry that they stirred up this mess.

"When the old Tammany frauds were discovered, a year ago, the Democrats of New-York, generally, owned up to them, and the consequence was the triumph of the Republicans in a Democratic State."

Will any reader of the New-York papers believe that the above is from the Express of Sept. 26, 1872? Let them refresh their memories concerning the course of the Express last year. It defended the Tammany thieves down to the very day of election. It abused us for exposing them. It suppressed all evidences of their guilt. The World, Herald and all the Tammany papers did the same. We said then that these papers would be the first to claim credit for the long struggle which we had carried on as soon as the victory was won. But fancy the Express pretending that it always knew TWEED & CO. were rogues! And yet the transformation is not greater than that which has turned the New-York Tribune into a Democratic organ more bigoted than the Express itself.

Mr. HALSTEAD, of Cincinnati, stated for months together, in his paper, that the President had been presented with a cottage by Mr THOMAS MURPHY. When that slander was disproved, HALSTEAD changed his ground, and said Mr. MURPHY had subscribed $5,000. We challenged him to prove that in a way which he could not meet, and he then sneaked off altogether. Now he tries to throw the responsibility for the slander upon Mr. A. T. STEWART. Is not this a course worthy of an honorable man?

It is the misfortune but the necessity of the cause in which the Tribune is engaged, and the company it keeps, that it must sooner or later be opposed to every true Reform movement or organization. Yesterday it denounced the "Council of Political Reform," charging that body with being a Grant campaign organization in disguise; whereas the fact is that it is an organization which has existed for several years; that it is and always has been wholly free from partizan affiliations, and is composed of sincere and earnest men who really desire true reform. Being sincerely in favor of Reform it is not probable that it will favor the candidates whom the Tribune must support, but it will be news to every one to find that it is a Grant organization. But it is a necessity of the Tribune's position that such an organization should be denounced and slandered.

Vice-President COLFAX not only disposes very conclusively of the Credit Mobilier slander, but he places Messrs. HORACE WHITE, SAM. BOWLES and HORACE GREELEY in the unpleasant predicament of being obliged to confess either that they aided and abetted, six years ago, in accomplishing a monstrous fraud upon the nation, or that they have been recently engaged in rearing what they very well knew to be an edifice of slanderous falsehood. If there is a shadow of doubt upon any honest mind that the Oakes Ames business has been a pure invention from first to last, Mr. COLFAX'S clear and crushing reply to the labored misrepresentations which have been circulated on the subject cannot fail to dissipate it; and now observe the way in which the Chicago and New-York Tribunes and the Springfield Republican will wriggle out of the dilemma in which Mr. COLFAX has placed them.

Why Mr. Greeley Insults Union Soldiers.

Mr. GREELEY has not hesitated to make false statements concerning the Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention, held at Pittsburg on the anniversary of Antietam. In his speech of the 19th of September, in that city, he declared the Convention to be a "rehearsal of the pomp and pageantry, the circumstance and blazonry of civil war." He said: "A large number of men were collected here, at a vast expense, with the single purpose of rekindling the bitterness and hatred, the animosities and antipathies, the fears and exultations of civil war." "I take you to witness," he went on, "that the orators on this occasion have been trying their best to make the people hate each other, for the sake of a partisan advantage."

Every statement in the above is the exact opposite of the truth. Every indication of the purpose of the Convention—its public call, the character of its officers, the addresses made, the resolutions adopted, the tone of individual conversation—showed, directly and conclusively, that no such feeling as Mr. GREELEY describes existed. Gen. BURNSIDE, the kindly and true-hearted gentleman and soldier who presided, said in his opening address:

"I am quite sure we do not make ourselves misunderstood today by expressing any ill-feelings toward our late enemies in the field, because we have no such ill-feelings, and we know that the hatchet is buried. * * * But for rulers, comrades, let us select men who, in the hour of their country's peril, were true. Let us, of all things, refuse our support to men who believe there was right in secession."

So thoroughly was this spirit understood, that the Convention was addressed by a large number of Ex-Confederates, from New-Orleans, in a letter expressing cordial sympathy with its purposes.

In complete harmony with the utterances of Gen. BURNSIDE were those of other speakers, while the formal, deliberate resolutions enthusiastically adopted by the Convention were still more emphatic. The fourth, which was greeted at every clause with loud and long applause, read thus:

4. We cherish no spirit of revenge toward our fellow-citizens of the South. The magnanimity of our late Commander-in-Chief on the field of Appomattox was a sufficient pledge of the Union Army that the "bloody chasm" of the war was closed, and with malice toward none, but with charity to all, we extend the right hand of fellowship to all those who accept in good faith the results of the war, and who will extend to every American citizen, of whatever race or color, the rights which are solemnly guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States and the laws made in pursuance thereof.

It was in face of this overwhelming evidence that Mr. GREELEY made his false declarations. Why did he make them? Why did he single out for abuse the veterans who had gathered from the avocations of peace to pledge to each other their fidelity to what they believed to be the cause they fought for in the field? Why, of all the seven millions of voters in our country, should these be set upon by Mr. GREELEY with baseless insinuations and charges notoriously untrue? Has he so soon forgotten the pride and sympathy with which we watched our regiments marching to the front through streets crowded with their admiring countrymen? Has he still sooner ceased to feel the lingering thrills of that joy and thankfulness with which we welcomed them as they marched back again, with thinned ranks under their torn flags? Certainly the nation has not forgotten them, and the soldiers know and acknowledge that it has not. Why should a Presidential candidate, pleading for votes, heap upon the veterans insulting phrases without a color of truth to justify them?

The secret is an open one. Mr. GREELEY desired to "conciliate" the unrepentant portion of the secessionists of the South. He is their candidate, and he is not above serving them in any way he deems most acceptable. Every stage in his self-imposed pilgrimage has been marked by some effort to win the approval of this class. At Pittsburg, in the same speech in which he calumniated the Northern soldiers, he reiterated his practical acceptance of the doctrine of secession in 1861, and professed that, under similar circumstances, he would prefer to "take the chances" of a vote of the States on secession to an attempt to preserve the Union (as it was preserved) by force. At Harrisburg he declared that his purpose "above all things" in becoming a candidate was to secure the removal of the disabilities which keep JEFFERSON DAVIS and ROBERT TOOMBS out of the United States Senate. At Warren, Penn., he avowed that his motive in bailing the arch traitor was to open a way to the Southern heart. At Corry, Penn., he presented the Kuklux outrages in a mild form, and pleaded that there were "excuses and provocations" for them. In the same address he denounced unqualifiedly the State Governments of the South, utterly ignoring the large share of native Southerners in their corruption, and classing all together in the rebel slang as "carpet-baggers." At Jeffersonville, Ind., he even acknowledged that his opposition to slavery "might have been a mistake."

We cannot err in believing that in thus electing to address these humiliating pleas to those of the Southerners who were original and are still unrepentant secessionists, Mr. GREELEY has despaired of support from the loyal portion of the North, and especially from the noble body of citizens who served in the Union Army. He must know that gratuitous insults to our veterans will be resented, not by them only, but by the great mass of the people of the North, and when he concluded to offer those insults, he must have abandoned all hope of loyal support. Having thus made his bed, he must be content to lie in it.

Fresh Air in Public Halls.

Since the present brilliant concert season began, there has been some warm weather, and this has drawn fresh attention to the very imperfect ventilation of most of our places of public resort. Steinway Hall is particularly unfortunate in this respect, and, by some means or another, the defect should be remedied without delay. The atmosphere there on last Wednesday night, during the Rubinstein concert, was simply murderous. Several people had to leave the hall because of it before the end of the performance, and others who sat it out have since been ill in consequence. We have taken occasion before to speak of the very bad ventilation of this hall, but nothing has been done to improve it; and we now take leave to say that the owners have no business to poison the public in this way, and that they ought forthwith to set about finding a remedy. If the situation of adjacent buildings is such as to prevent proper outlets, the edifice should not be used for public gatherings at all. But even such a plea, if it is advanced, is invalid. For ventilators on a sufficient scale can be pierced in the roof, and, if we mistake not, further openings can be had in the rear. We have not the least feeling of unkindness toward the proprietors, save that which springs from their improper treatment of the public; but on this point they are doing themselves and concert-goers a serious mischief, which ought immediately to be brought to an end. Their hall, as now constructed, is an intolerable nuisance, and there is no just excuse for its continuing to remain so. The experience of last season, when ladies were taken ill there over and over again, ought to have been enough to suggest the propriety of curing the evil. At some of the concerts of the Church Music Association, the room was literally like an oven, and worse, since the air in it was not only intolerably hot, but disgustingly foul. A great many complaints were made at the time, and it was supposed that at least after the '71-2 concert season was over, the matter would receive proper attention.

It appears, however, that nothing of the kind has been done, and that, not only through the Patti-Mario and Rubinstein concerts, but all through the Winter and Spring, people are to be stifled and made ill in this gross and needless manner just as before. If such is the intention, we must suggest that the owners will find it to their advantage to change it. We sincerely trust that they will do so, and thus get rid, so far as may be, at once of a crying discomfort and of an unenviable odium. Let them, at all events, knock half a dozen big holes through the roof, and apply proper ventilators to them. A much abused public, thoroughly sick and tired of weltering in the unwholesome stew that usually constitutes the atmosphere of the hall, will be very grateful for it; and certainly the gratitude of audiences and artists must have value, even in the most selfish sense, to the owners of such a building.

The truth is, these things should be regulated by law, just as steam-boilers and emigrant ships are. So many superficial feet of clear opening to the outward air, in just ratio to the area of the hall, should be made obligatory, and there should be inspectors to see to it that the law is carried out. At least one-half of the diseases of throat and lungs, so prevalent in our Northern Winters, are contracted in the mephitic and overheated atmosphere of theatres and concert-halls. If half the pains were taken to make these places cool that are expended to make them hot, it would be an immense relief; and, since coolness can only be produced on the requisite scale by letting in fresh air and expelling foul, comfort and health would be attained together. It is, of course, to the interest of the owners and lessees of such buildings that they should be healthy and comfortable; but, somehow or other, this is one of the things affecting peoples' interests that is generally lost sight of. In this respect our present system of building is practically barbaric. People who would indignantly decline to wash in water previously used by another person, calmly sit for hours breathing the poison-burdened air that has been used over and over again in numberless other person's lungs. The practice, besides being so very insalubrious, is also extremely nasty, and the sooner the evil is properly and universally remedied the better for the health of the community.

Very Clumsy Misrepresentation.

There is a well-known practice to whose successful indulgence a short memory is absolutely fatal. Mr. GREELEY'S personal organ has lately resorted to this practice with quite unexampled frequency, but as its memory cannot be relied upon for occurrences six weeks old, it naturally makes very clumsy work of its lying. We thought that in its previous treatment of Attorney-General BARLOW and the Ring suits, the organ had touched the lowest attainable depth of meanness and duplicity. Yesterday, however, it fairly excelled itself in a tirade full of stupid and ridiculous misrepresentation. Into the compass of an article half a column long, the Tribune has contrived to pack a greater number of reckless and ignorant misstatements than we have either time or space to expose. Take the following as samples:

"At length, after quite ten months' delay, Attorney-General BARLOW has been driven to give notice that in spite of the bargains, &c., &c., the great thief of the Ring, along with some of his lesser satellites, is to be brought to trial in October."

It is a falsehood of the meanest kind, and the Tribune knows it, to assert that Attorney-General BARLOW has not been actuated by the purest motives in his management, and by perfect singleness of purpose in the public service, from first to last, of these Ring prosecutions. The organ can hardly be ignorant enough not to be aware of the grounds of the "delay" in bringing up the criminal indictments. Attorney-General BARLOW had nothing to do with the assignment of Judges, made last Fall, to the sessions of Oyer and Terminer to be held in this Judicial District. It was certainly no fault of his that BARNARD and CARDOZO should have been named for the sessions prior to October, and, though the Tribune undoubtedly does wish the majority of the Ring thieves to escape their deserts, the honest community of New-York do not participate in this desire. The Oyer and Terminer bill, introduced to the Legislature by Mr. TILDEN in April last, was intended to enable the Court of Appeals, on motion of the Attorney-General, to assign a Justice of the Supreme Court, outside of this Judicial District, for the trial of these Ring indictments. TWEED, SWEENY, CONNOLLY, HALL and the rest of them would have very promptly received their appropriate punishment, had this bill not been vetoed by Gov. HOFFMAN, whose administration the Tribune indorses, and had not Mr. ALVORD and other Greeley Republicans conspired with Tammany Democrats to prevent the bill being passed over the Executive veto. So much for the "delay" and the responsibility for it.

But, continues the organ:

"Some nervousness is felt, too, as to the conduct of the prosecution. It is not yet understood that either Mr. TILDEN or Mr. O'CONOR is to be actively associated in the prosecution, and this causes not a little anxiety among men truly desirous of seeing Mr. TWEED and his guilty confederates consigned to State Prison."

A few days ago Mr. WHEELER H. PECKHAM informed the Tribune that the conduct of these criminal suits had been confided to himself and counsel associated with him. If there be any "nervousness" felt about such an arrangement, it is doubtless by these good friends of the organ, and of its candidate, SWEENY, HALL and GENET. We are very certain that the honest public feels none, and least of all Messrs. TILDEN and O'CONOR. As Mr. PECKHAM is claimed as a supporter of Mr. GREELEY, the organ cannot surely distrust him. Passing over the astounding display of ignorance involved in the assumption that the prosecution has been guilty of a "blunder" in giving notice to the accused that they are to be tried in the Oyer and Terminer, we come to the following:

"FRANCIS KERNAN, CHARLES O'CONOR, and SAMUEL J. TILDEN organized and conducted the Reform movement which finally undermined and destroyed the Ring and redeemed Tammany."

A year ago the organ talked of the gentlemen whom it now takes under its patronage, after this fashion: "TWEED'S victory at Rochester, Wednesday, is more complete than our worst anticipations foreboded. He was virtually recognized as the leader of our City Democracy; his Committee is still its accredited organ; his ticket will be the regular Democratic ticket; * * There never was a more disgraceful back-down than that of the Seymours and Kernans and Tildens, quailing before the audacity of this embodiment of wholesale corruption and vulgar profligacy." "His (Mr. TILDEN'S) narrow comprehension early led him to suppose that this world was created to run the Democratic Party in; and he has neither imbibed nor engendered a new conception during the last fifty years. Being more honest and reputable than the real leaders of his party, they are quite willing to have him serve as a figure-head and screen for their more flagrant (sic) rascalities." And yet, the Tribune says now that these were the agents who were just then engaged in undermining the Ring and redeeming Tammany. Either now or then, it stands guilty of perpetrating a deliberate falsehood. But once again hear the organ:

"Mr. O'CONOR and Mr. TILDEN have really never relinquished, except formally, to the new Attorney-General, the general management of these cases. Let them publicly appear as the guiding spirits of this prosecution, and public confidence will be restored and strengthened."

The power of relinquishing or retaining a connection with the Ring suits was never vested in either Mr. TILDEN or Mr. O'CONOR. Attorney-General BARLOW had the power, after assuming office, of choosing such counsel as he thought were best fitted to assist him in prosecuting the Ring thieves. He chose (in spite of the Tribune's sneers) Messrs. O'CONOR and TILDEN, and they have been the leading counsel in the prosecution of the civil suits in every court where the preliminary question affecting them has been argued. There has been no "relinquishment," formal or otherwise, on the part of either Mr. O'CONOR or Mr. TILDEN, and every step which Attorney-Gen. BARLOW has taken in regard to the Ring trials has had the entire approval of both the eminent counsel of whom the organ has become so suddenly enamored. If it has any proof to the contrary, let it say so; if not, let it refrain for the future from chattering about matters in regard to which its dense ignorance is only equaled by its petty malevolence.

Democratic Greeleyites and the Colored Race.

We call the attention of colored people everywhere to the treatment which the present attitude of the Greeley organs toward them promises them in the future. The other day the New-York Express had an article designed to prove that the natural state of the negro was one of slavery, and that he was now proving what a mistake it was to liberate him. The New-York Herald, which has also supported GREELEY in every way that it could, yesterday grossly insulted FREDERICK DOUGLASS, who has more brains in his head than could be found in the entire Herald establishment. It altogether omitted his speech at Cooper Institute, and in place of giving a fair report of that, it published the following remarks:

"The Chairman introduced a 'cullud pusson,' who proceeded to deliver a rambling, frivolous tirade on politics; but, as his remarks were without any value or coherent significance, we cannot devote the space to reproduce them here."

In its editorial columns, the Herald thus insulted the entire colored race through its best and ablest representative:

"At the Cooper Institute yesterday evening a mass-meeting was held by the Grant Republicans, at which Judge PIERREPONT delivered a careful, smooth and well-poised address, as a lawyer of his ability might, speaking for his party. But whatever party good may have been derived from this speech was thrown away by the appearance of a 'culled gemman' to tell patronizingly what he knows about the white vote. Although having given the negroes their freedom, we are not quite prepared yet to swallow their dictation as to how we are to cast our ballots. * * * We can only wonder at the complacency with which the 'culled gemman' was listened to in the patronage he extended to his white fellow-citizens. We can admit, for the sake of argument, that 'the colored troops fought nobly,' but we know it was under white leaders; and as this seems to be about the position they are destined to fill in the approaching elections it would be something more to the point to let their white leaders now do the talking for them also. At last night's meeting we have a Judge and a negro trying to talk Gen. GRANT into re-election, presenting only the signs of 'addition and division,' without the well-known political quantity of 'silence.' We think, with regard to the colored orator's blatant patronage of his white leaders, it might round here be advantageously exchanged for the tacit article. On one side it is 'anything to beat GRANT,' and on the other 'anything to beat GREELEY,' which will account, we suppose, for the powers of endurance of the meeting last night in hearing this 'culled gemman's' rhapsody with patience. The black vote must be catered to, you know, even at the expense of decency, truth and common sense."

The majority of our citizens will regard these allusions to Mr. DOUGLASS—a man whose great abilities have been known to the country for years past—as a disgraceful and unmanly outrage. We appeal to the audience who heard Mr. DOUGLASS on Wednesday whether his speech was not that of a most able and well-informed man, be the color of his skin what it may? Is it just or wise thus to insult one who has done so much for the cause of freedom and civilization? The Herald only too accurately expresses the views of the Democratic-Greeleyites toward the colored race. We warn the colored men in Pennsylvania, and throughout the country generally, to mark well the utterances of the Democratic organs respecting them. A vote for GREELEY means a total surrender on their parts of all they have gained during the past few years.

Paris.

There are some things in social, as well as political life, which Dundreary says, "No fellow can understand." For example, in Paris, since the war, the cost of living has doubled, the people profess that they are ruined, and yet their extravagance and ostentatious display are more conspicuous than ever. Splendid carriages drawn by priceless horses roll up and down the Boulevards. The crack cafés, like the Maison Dorée, the Café Anglais and the Bignon's—the original Frères Provençaux is among the things that were—are crammed, and the great demand is for truffled game, the most expensive patés, and delicate oysters, the finest iced champagnes—in short for whatever is most dainty and costly. At night the theatres and gardens are packed with pleasure-seekers. Even in the heats of Midsummer, the Variétés, the Bouffes, and the Palais-Royal have literally overflowed. And so have the concert halls of Musard, the Cirque—no longer "Imperiale"—the syren-haunting Mabille, and the other resorts of fast young Paris. The question is where does the money come from? France has just paid 57,000,000 of francs more—another fraction of that terrible indemnity—and the taxes in the capital are of unprecedented severity. Yet the sumptuous living, the show, the glitter, the audacious flaunt of vice, the recklessness of the future, so characteristic of Paris under the Empire, are no whit lessened under the Republic.

If, however, we look closely we find signs of hollowness and tokens of an impending catastrophe. It has long been said among ourselves, that it is impossible people can long keep up their present scale of expenditure. That scale, born of the war and expanded currency, must needs, we have heard, be cut sharply down, or else half society would be ruined, and some miles of brown-stone palaces be let out for lodging-houses. There has been reason for apprehension, even if the worst results predicted have been deferred. At the same time, commercial growth here is so great and so swift as almost to forestall imprudence and belie prophecy. Paris, on the other hand, is much more at a stand-still; indeed, has of late been in retrogression, and hence her present dazzling outlay is the more surprising. It is doubtful, however, whether the crash is far off. The drain of money without and within must infallibly bring exhaustion; and the indications of it are not hard to find. One of these is discernible in the feverish talk of the Paris journals about Baden, and its favorite pursuit. The lease of the games will not be renewed by the German Government, and Paris yearns with an unholy appetite for the spoil that might accrue by adopting Baden's disused business. "Paris," they cry, "the centre of gaiety, of fashion and refinement must be kept up at all hazards. Why not have here what people are sure to have somewhere, and make the profit that somebody is sure to make?" The bitter groans, too, over onerous imposts, and the occasional fierce outbursts declaring that the present state of things cannot last, bely the unthinking pomp and lavishness of the Boulevards and the theatres. A financial convulsion will probably, ere long, shake Parisian society to its foundations, and add another calamity to the many the unfortunate capital has of late been called on to endure. Not even an epoch of green cloths, croupiers, and roulette-tables, is likely to avert that, however it may add to national misfortune the stigma of a national shame.

A Man Hunt.

The Governor of Missouri has recently pardoned an inmate of the Penitentiary, under circumstances which furnish a remarkable and touching instance of what a devoted, trusting, and energetic wife can do for an unfortunate husband. The latter used to live in Toledo, Ohio, and the facts of his case are vouched for by respectable journals of that place. Some time ago he removed to Missouri with his wife, and early in 1870 the events fell out that proved so disastrous to him. It appears that he was not very prosperous, and had occasion to sell—as nearly the last of his possessions—a pair of fine horses. For these he received $500 in clean, new national currency. The stock-dealer who bought the horses afterward disappeared. On the next day after the sale the vender paid out two bills of $10 each. It was discovered that they were counterfeit, and the utterer was promptly arrested and lodged in prison. He, of course, directly protested his innocence, and told how he got the money; and the remaining $480 was found on his person. The horse-dealer was traced and brought forward, when, to the horror and amazement of the accused man, he stoutly denied all knowledge of the bad bills, and swore the money he had paid for the horses was in bills on an Illinois bank. No confirmatory evidence of the prisoner's tale could be got, and, as much counterfeit money had lately been circulated in that region, public feeling ran strongly against him. He was tried, and, despite his earnest protestations, and his wife's determined struggles in his behalf, he was found guilty, and sentenced to five years' imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

But the wife never for a moment believed him guilty; and, with astonishing resolution and pertinacity she now bent herself to the task of proving his innocence and effecting his release. To the latter end she first sought and obtained interviews with the Governor of Missouri. To him she stated her case as she saw and believed it. But the Governor, although kind, was firm. The prisoner had been shown to be guilty. Counterfeiting was greatly on the increase. It was necessary to make examples, and there was every just reason why her husband should be one of them. He could hold out no hope, save in the condemned's restoration to his family after five years. The wife went home, converted all she had into cash, and thenceforward devoted her whole time and brain to following the horse-dealer, who had given her husband the spurious notes, with the hope of convicting the really guilty person of that offense. Pursuing him like a shadow, but keeping out of his sight, she soon found that when he went to a place counterfeit money was said to be in circulation there soon after. This happened at Freeport, Ill., and afterward at Fort Wayne, Ind. At the latter place she caused his arrest. But nothing could be proved against him and he was set free. She then dogged him to Canton, Ohio, to Pittsburg, Altoona, Lancaster, Chambersburg, Philadelphia, Goshen, Binghamton, Oswego, Elmira and other towns in New-York, sometimes staying two or three months in each place. The man was, however, so guarded and ingenious as always to manage to cover his tracks—in fact he never passed false "paper" himself at all—and his implacable pursuer was unable to bring him to account. At last, however, he fell ill at Newton, Sussex County, N. J., and she believed and proved that her golden opportunity was at last at hand.

When the horse-dealer fell ill, the wife of his victim was at the same hotel. She found out the physician attending him and frankly told her whole story. She described how she had tracked the cause of her husband's misfortunes, and begged the doctor for the sake of right and justice to help her. The physician was moved by her tale, and agreed to do what she asked, which was to give his patient some depressing, but safe medicine, and adroitly to lead him to think that he was in a very critical condition. This was accordingly done, and worked to a charm. The patient begged at once for a clergyman, who, arriving, pointed out the necessity of full repentance, and at this juncture the wife entered the room, and implored the supposed dying man to repair the great wrong he had done her husband. The result was that the sufferer made a deposition before a Magistrate, confessing that he had passed the five hundred dollars, as described, and furthermore that he was a member of an extensive gang of counterfeiters, his special business being, not to utter bad money, but to spread it among confederates in different parts of the country. He also said that on the occasion of making the trade in question, he happened to have no other money, and greatly wanted the horses. Armed with this document, the now happy woman hastened back to Missouri, laid her evidence before the Governor, and had the satisfaction of carrying a full pardon to her husband almost immediately after. The two are now living joyfully together on a farm in Southern Illinois, and their case is naturally attracting abundant comment and congratulation.

Religion and Politics.

Will the Greeleyites tell us whether it is or is not true that CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, was an active member of the Know-Nothing organization? We are assured this is so by those who ought to know. We are further informed that CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW is, or was very recently, a member of the Order of the Patriotic Sons of America, or the Patriotic Order of the Sons of America—we are not sure which is the correct name—a secret oath-bound organization, whose fundamental obligation is never, under any circumstances, to support a Roman Catholic for office. We have no access to the records of that Order, and therefore cannot verify the information we have received. But that the Tribune can easily do so will appear from the following facts:

This organization was formed about two years since, and as the Fenton Republicans were at that time engaged in a crusade against the Administration for appointing THOMAS MURPHY Collector, their leaders went into it in a body, and have ever since controlled the organization in this State, though after the occurrences of the 12th of July, many persons not known in politics became members. This organization has local "Encampments" about the State, and in this City and Brooklyn an "Encampment" in each Assembly District. MORGAN L. FILKINS, of Albany, a removed Postmaster, and now a member of the Liberal Republican State Committee, was, until last May, the head of the State Encampment. At a meeting held at Albany at that time, GEORGE H. VAN CLEFT, another prominent Liberal Republican, was elected in his place, FILKINS being subsequently elected one of the National Vice-Presidents. At the same meeting, JOHN V. GRIDLEY was temporary Chairman and ALFRED WILKINSON, member of the Liberal Republican State Committee, and its Secretary, and a member of the Cincinnati Convention, was elected State Master of Forms and Ceremonies. J. J. POLLOCK, another Greeley Republican, was chosen District President for this City, and JOHN V. GRIDLEY State Deputy. Of other well-known Greeley Republicans, we are informed that ARCHIE BLISS, of Brooklyn, controls the Order in that city, assisted by J. W. PECKETT, Consider Parish.—WILKINSON and others. We are assured that not less than one-half of the Liberal Republican State Committee are members of the Order, and among the names given us are JAMES L. HASTIE, MORGAN L. FILKINS, JAMES R. ALLABEN, ALFRED WILKINSON and HENRY C. LAKE. Our informants disagree as to whether GEORGE W. PALMER and BENJAMIN A. WILLIS are members, though all say that PALMER is in entire accord with the Order, but so long as he was Appraiser, thought best not to join. Of other well-known Greeley Republicans in this vicinity we learn that DANIEL D. CONSOVER, BENJAMIN F. MANIERRE and BEN FIELD are members.

With so many of its friends in high places in the Order, the Tribune will have no difficulty in finding out whether CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW is a member. If he is, what are we to think of a State ticket which has upon it for its first two places a Roman Catholic and a man who is bound by an oath never to support a Roman Catholic for office? Is it not very suggestive of bad faith somewhere? Can the obligations to the Order, and those to the new composite Liberal Republican Democratic Party, be both fulfilled? Whether Mr. DEPEW be a member or not, is it not a little singular to find the men we have named active members of a committee whose duty it is to secure the election of a man they are bound by an oath not to vote for? It is "none of our funeral," but if there isn't some selling out and cheating on and before election day, then Democratic and Fenton Republican human nature has undergone a radical change

CHARLES O'CONOR.

An Interesting Correspondence Between Hon. Thos. H. Carroll and the Great Straight-Out.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, TROY, N. Y., Sept. 20, 1872.

Charles O'Conor, Esq.:

DEAR SIR: Please permit an old admirer to express the delight he feels over the enunciation of principles in your letter to the Louisville Democratic meeting, and the judgment given to the Committee of that body—save as to the use of your name on the occasion.

When the Democracy come back to first principles, as elucidated, success will come back to them. When they adhere to consistency rather than resort to expediency, they will find it better to stick to statesmen of their own, than run after false politicians of other parties.

Your utterance of political doctrines must make an indelible impression on public thought, and with the object I have in view, I will be excused for repeating, for approval, the declaration that "Governmental intermeddling with those concerns of society, which, under judicious laws, might beneficially be left to individual action, is the only real evil actually developed in our system. This eminence is assigned to it because it is the fruitful parent of all others existing, and because the measures required to correct it are precisely those which would extirpate the unrestrained powers now so mischievously exercised by our officials. If, instead of prohibiting or diminishing this vicious practice, our people should impart to it new sanctions and greater vitality, reform must become impossible. Now, of this practice, above all other living Americans, Mr. Greeley is the recognized champion, and no body of organized opponents to it has ever existed in the country except the Democratic Party. Yet, by the decree of a convention assuming to represent that party, Mr. Greeley has been gazetted as its standard-bearer." It may fairly be added that Mr. Greeley has neither recanted his anti-democratic and illiberal heresies nor condoned his life-long villifications of the Democratic Party. You justly add that, "Aside from party sentiments, my (your) views of the public interest and of existing public necessities compel me (you) to repudiate the Baltimore nomination of Mr. Greeley. When speaking or writing on the subject I (you) have uniformly condemned it and declared my (your) readiness to support a Democratic candidate."

In comparison, you well add that "The success of Gen. Grant might involve no important consequences, but that of Mr. Greeley would consecrate the practices referred to, which in my (your) opinion are absolutely incompatible with the permanency of republican institutions."

On the strength of your avowals and position you ought not to have been disappointed at your nomination by the objectors of Cincinnati and Baltimore, especially when you take into account the fact that the assemblage that nominated you outnumbered, to say the least, that which nominated Mr. Greeley. The Baltimore Convention was the least of a representative body that ever pretended to represent a great party in a delegated capacity. It threatens to bring conventions as well as the party into contempt.

In your response to the Committee of the second Cincinnati Convention, soliciting your acceptance of its nomination, I notice you make the following observations: "I am quite prepared to say that there are a large number of eminent men in the Republican Party who might well have aspired to the Presidency, and whose acceptance as candidates at Baltimore would not have been unjustifiable. The nomination which was in fact made, made it utterly so. Its folly is manifest, and its failure inevitable. A public coalition, though it has all the inherent qualities of a conspiracy, has not the same chance of success. The people may be sacrificed by a secret betrayal; they never consent to an open sale.

Ever since the snap judgment against popular sentiment obtained by the deed of Baltimore, arguments very inapplicable or very unsound have been used to prevent resistance. There is said to be no fit choice presented, and that of two admitted evils it is wisdom to choose the least. If all this were true it should not result in favor of the Baltimore nominee.

The outcry 'too late' is not just, even now. Men travel by steam and commune by electricity. If today a popular sentiment exists, it can be stimulated to action in an hour. Had we only the appliances of antiquity, a national impulse could light its fires upon a thousand hills and arouse the whole people. With our superior modes of communion, let it not be said that fifty days do not afford adequate space for an awakening."

The whole of your response might well be reiterated, and must be remembered in order to understand the full significance of both the latter paragraph alone quoted and that following:

"Whatever I might do in respect to any other office, I could neither accept a nomination or become a candidate for the successorship of Washington."

This declaration, unless its reconsideration may be induced, must be deemed conclusive in the premises. But, suppose the evident failure of the Greeley movement should continue to develop itself, might not the contingency occur of a declination by Greeley and the substitution of another name that would not only rally the Democratic masses, but enlist the disaffected Republicans? In such an event the "fifty days" you speak of, or even the thirty days that will follow the October elections, would be adequate for the formation of such a ticket as should have been made at Baltimore, to say nothing of Cincinnati. For it must now be apparent that Hendricks, Groesbeck, Buckalew, or either yourself, Seymour, Church, or Tilden, of our own State, would unite the Democracy with a fair prospect of success; that is, if the "Liberal" disaffection amounts to anything.

Since the results of the war, if the Democrats were so anxious for success, and had not the sagacity to get it under Grant, they might have had it without going any further than they have gone, neither accepting the equivocal platitudes or adopting the nondescript candidates of Cincinnati. If they were so anxious to be liberal they might have found more "liberal" associates in going originally for Gen. Grant, or in adhering to McClellan, or by taking up some other popular Union military chieftain.

At the time of the original Cincinnati Convention a Presidential nomination was the price of the Tribune's support. Then "anything to beat Grant" meant only the thing that thought "Grant would be a better candidate for 1872 than he was in 1868;" and the only apparent reason for wanting that thing was, it would bring more of the customs or patronage of which there had been an alleged deprivation.

The fact is, the whole Greeley movement is not only the "stupendous blunder" it was called by the World and other wise heads, but it is destined to prove a disgrace to Democracy as well as a disappointment to Tammany. And it appears to me that you ought to suffer any use of your name that may be deemed necessary to correct or retrieve that blunder.

Finally, my dear Sir, I make bold to say that, so far as Gen. Grant is concerned, regardless of local results, I do not believe it will prove any easier to beat him than it was Gen. Jackson. Our friends made a mistake in not making him their candidate. To do it would have required as much less concession than is being made in an opposite direction. He stands now where he stood in his battle for the Union. The masses as well as the wealth of the nation are supporting him. True, he has some against him now who were for him then, but he has also many for him now who were not for him then. It does not require a seer to forecast the horoscope so far as to prognosticate that unless Horace Greeley get out of the way, Gen. Grant will be re-elected more easily than was either of his predecessors.

Your friend and obedient servant,

THOMAS B. CARROLL

MR. O'CONOR'S REPLY.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 25, 1872.

MY DEAR SIR: I am only one among our great forty millions. My consent or approval is not necessary to any public act of many, a few or one.

Of course your courtesy in asking whether your proposed use of my name would involve anything personally disagreeable to me demands my thanks, yet it would seem to have been needless. You must yourself have seen that whether or not I concurred in your views, there was in them nothing that, as a man of ordinary common sense, I could regard as personally offensive.

It may not be amiss to say that I differed with you as to the position of Gen. Grant in popular esteem prior to the Baltimore Convention, and believed that a sagacious nomination at Baltimore might have led to his defeat. In justice to the wire-pullers, I ought to say that I thought little and did nothing in reference to the Presidential nomination prior to the Baltimore affair.

Yours, &c.,

(Signed,) CHAS. O'CONOR.

Mr. CARROLL.

OBITUARY.

Rev. Peter Cartwright.

A dispatch from Chicago announces that Rev. Peter Cartwright, the pioneer Methodist preacher, died on Wednesday at his home near Pleasant Plains, Ill., at the advanced age of eighty-seven years.

Peter Cartwright was born on the 1st of September, 1785, in the County of Amherst, Virginia, from which State his father entered the Continental Army and served in the Revolutionary War for two years and six months. While yet a boy Peter emigrated to the far west of old Virginia, where he lived a pioneer in the wilderness. Experiencing religion at an early age, Mr. Cartwright joined the Methodist Church and became an itinerant preacher in 1804, being then only nineteen years of age. His education was naturally limited, but he soon became a noted exhorter and a great favorite with the denizens of that primitive region. In 1804 he traveled the Salt River and Shelby Circuit with Mr. McKendree as presiding elder. In 1805 he went the Scioto Circuit, and in the following year traveled through Muskingum. In this year he was ordained a deacon, and admitted to full connection. After traveling the Bauer Circuit, Mr. Cartwright was ordained elder, and appointed to the Salt River Circuit. In 1809 and 1810 he was at Livingston, Ky., and on the Christian Circuit in 1811. The Tennessee Conference was organized by the General Conference of 1812, and held its first session in the Fall of that year, and Peter Cartwright became a member thereof. In November of 1812 he was first appointed presiding elder, which office he has held as follows: 1812, Wabash District; 1813 to 1816, on the Green River District, Kentucky; 1821 to 1824, on Cumberland District, Kentucky Conference; 1826 to 1829, on Illinois District; 1829 to 1830, on Sangamon District; 1832 to 1836, Quincy District, and President Pleasant Plains Academy in 1834; 1836 to 1839, Sangamon District, and agent Springfield College in 1836; 1839, Springfield District; 1840 to 1844, Jacksonville District; 1844 to 1847, Bloomington District; 1847 to 1850, Springfield District; 1851 and 1852, Quincy District; 1853 to 1857, Pleasant Plains District; 1857 to 1861, Jacksonville District; 1861 to 1865, Springfield District; 1865 to 1869, Pleasant Plains District.

Mr. Cartright also served as pastor in addition to these, on the Christian Circuit in Kentucky, in 1816, 1819, 1820. On Red River Circuit, in 1817, 1818, and on the Sangamon Circuit, in 1824, and Superintendent of Potawatamie Mission, and again pastor on that circuit in 1825. Upon the organization of the Illinois Conference, in 1824, he was transferred to it, and was at its first session, held at Wm. Padfield's, St. Clair County, Oct. 23, 1824. And in all that time, forty-five years elapsing since that session, he has been absent from the Conference but once. He has been present at the first roll call forty-one times, and three times he came in after the roll was called. His character has been passed at every Conference. Was Treasurer of Metropolitan Church in 1853, and custodian of Centenary Funds 1840-41-45. Vice-President of Conference Tract Society in 1853, and for many years President of the Conference Missionary Society. During these years he served at various times on all of the disciplinary committees. Two years on memoirs, five on public worship, one on periodicals, eight on examination of undergraduates, six as steward, nineteen years on missions, beside his former connection with the Western missionary work. He thus spent eight years in the old Western Conference, eight years in the Tennessee Conference, four years in the Kentucky Conference, and forty-five years in the Illinois Conference, and had charge in the Western Conference of seven different pastorates, being returned to one of them the second year. In Tennessee Conference four years as presiding elder, and four as pastor, serving each charge two years. In Illinois Conference he served two years as pastor on the Sangamon Circuit, after which he was made presiding elder, which office he has held ever since—on the Illinois District, three years; Sangamon, six years; Quincy, six years; Springfield, nine years; Jacksonville, eight years; Bloomington, three years; Pleasant Plains, eight years. He had to travel to conferences into Ohio, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, and Illinois, and sometimes almost entirely across the adjacent State, and the entire distance on horseback. He was more intimately connected with the Potawatamie Mission than any other man, being among the first to originate and among the most energetic in carrying it forward and supplying it with funds and missionaries. Serving on its committees in the Conferences in 1827-29 in regard to its general interests. In 1830, to examine papers connected therewith, and to pay the debts incurred in carrying it on, and to estimate the amount necessary for its sustenance, and when the Indians had moved to a more distant land, it was left to him to arrange all of its financial interests. During a number of these years he had the exclusive management of them. His large experience as a traveling preacher, and his keen foresight as an advancer of civilization and Christianity, brought to his mind the necessity of enlarging or decreasing territory of Conference, and was often the first in general movements in the organization of new Conferences, and always served important parts on such committees. He was the author of a resolution adopted at the Conference of 1841, requesting the General Assembly of the State of Illinois to pass a law protecting worshiping assemblies from molestation. As one of the landmarks in the Western Methodist, Elder Cartwright will long be remembered, and his many virtues will survive to bless the Church in which he so long and faithfully labored for sixty-eight years.

OHIO.

Boasted Sorehead Defection from the Republicans Dwindling Down—An Active Campaign—Mr. Colfax's Shell in the Slanderers' Camp.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 26.—The Republican canvass in Ohio has progressed thus far this week very satisfactorily. Reports from the greater portion of the Congressional districts are very encouraging, and nowhere except in those places where the German element is large is any danger apprehended from any sorehead disaffection. This German defection will be apparent in Hamilton, Cuyahoga, Lucas, Summit, Stark, and, possibly, one or two other counties. In Franklin and other Democratic Counties it will not be apparent, because the Germans of those localities are almost unanimously Democratic. From a careful sifting of all the facts thus far received at this central position, it is proven beyond doubt that the boastings of the soreheads and their organs of the great uprising in their behalf from out of the Republican Party has no foundation save in the counties indicated. Whatever changes may occur in the October vote from that of last year will be mainly due to the condition of affairs in these counties. But the reports show that matters are improving even there, and with the force of speakers now in the field, a very spirited canvass will be maintained up to the very day of election. A large number of the leading speakers are now on the stump, and the meetings are very cheering in their character. The same resolute determination to rebuke apostacy as was exhibited in Maine is apparent here.

Postmaster General Creswell spoke last night at Toledo to a very large audience, and to-night at Sandusky, in the Tenth Congressional District, where a very warm canvass is going on between Hon. Charles Foster, the present representative, and his opponent, Rush R. Sloane, who wields considerable railroad influence. Congressman Frye, of Maine, will lend his powerful aid to Foster next week. Mr. Creswell speaks at Cleveland on Friday and Mount Vernon on Saturday. Speaker Blaine makes three speeches next week—at Elyria, Springfield and Cincinnati. Senator Wilson will make five speeches—at Canton, Cleveland, Toledo, Dayton and Cincinnati. Attorney-General Williams will make five speeches in the southern part of the State—at Marietta, McConnellsville, Athens, Zanesville and Washington. Col. Forney spoke to-night at Bryan, and will speak at Fremont and Norwalk on Friday and Saturday. Secretary Delano had a splendid meeting at Bellefontaine, Logan County, last night, and another at Springfield, Clark County, this afternoon. Hon. Lewis Barker, of Maine, goes to the Southern part of the State, while Gen. Woodford will make five speeches in the Northern part of the State, beginning at Bryan on Tuesday. Gen. Hall, of Maine, who has just come over from a two weeks' canvass in Indiana, spoke at Kenton, Hardin County, to night, and will devote himself to the North and West part of the State.

In addition to all these, Gen. Garfield, Ben Wade, Lieut.-Gov. Kirk, Gen. Hillyer of New-York, J. O. Winship, Esq., of Maine, Judge Bingham, Gov. Noyes, Gen. Leggett, Hon. Will Cumback, Gen. Sherwood and many others, together with all the candidates for Congress, will be actively on the stump for the remainder of the campaign. Senator Sherman, who has been absent all Summer, and who owes a deep debt of gratitude to the Republicans of Ohio, will barely be home in time to make two speeches before the election. There is much apparently just complaint at his indifference to this canvass thus far.

Vice-President Colfax's speech at South Bend last night has created a sensation among the retailers of slander here and in Cincinnati. They are squirming in a very lively manner.

Hassaurek's course has as yet produced no results, except to confound himself. The exposure of his mercenary disposition followed so quickly that he has been put upon the defensive, and his friends say that, having waited so long, they see no good reason why he should not have waited longer, except it be the pecuniary one by which he was influenced. The Cincinnati Courier (German) and Gazette are following him unmercifully.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Ratification Meeting at Harrisburg—The Whole Ticket Indorsed—Speeches by Secretary Boutwell and Others.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Sept. 26.—A perfect ovation was tendered to Secretary Boutwell in this city this evening, the large Court-room being crowded to overflowing to hear him. He addressed the citizens for over an hour, after the organization of the meeting. Hon. Francis Jordan, Secretary of the Commonwealth of the State, was chosen to preside. In the first part of his speech he set forth his reasons for being in Pennsylvania at this period, following with an eloquent eulogy of Gen. Grant, so clearly laid down as to create thunders of applause. Alluding to the enfranchisement of the negro, he asked whether Gen. Grant did not in his inaugural address of 1869, call upon the people of the country to ratify the Constitutional Amendments securing to them the right of suffrage, and he might say, without passing beyond bounds proper in such a discussion, that, in the Cabinet, Gen. Grant had expressed more anxiety for the success of that measure than for the accomplishment of any other with which the Administration had been identified. [Great applause.] He plainly set forth that there were three classes of of persons who cannot consent by their vote to elect Mr. Greeley—the business men, the patriotic men and laboring men of this country. Among other things, Mr. Greeley had advised the Secretary of the Treasury, during the past three years and a half, to do twelve things inconsistently with each other, and either of which done in the way had proposed would be fatal to the business interests of the country. One was, the resumption of specie payments, and the other, the selling of the gold in the Treasury, to put it in circulation. The eminent speaker proved rather conclusively that there are two classes of one not fitted for business of statesmanship—critics and orators. The speaker concluded by reviewing the financial condition of the country, during the recital of which he was frequently interrupted with loud and prolonged applause. He was followed Gen. A. L. Hancock, Republican candidate for Congress in the Second District of Maryland, who referred particularly to the campaign for State officers, and exhorted all loyal people in Pennsylvania to work and vote for Gen. Hartranft, a soldier and sailor who had nobly thrown himself into the breach at the outset of the war, and had nobly fought until the perpetuity of the Union was secured, and an honorable peace vouchsafed to the nation. Gen. Hancock's address was of an admirable character, and elicited the enthusiastic plaudits of the audience in an almost continuous round from beginning to end.

Gov. Geary, in response to loud and repeated calls, at last came forward upon the stage, and, in a short but very pithy address, encouraged his hearers to stand firm, stating that he had traveled over the entire north-western section of the State within the past two weeks, and had never before seen such enthusiasm as was shown for Grant, Hartranft and Wilson. The Governor pleasantly alluded to a recent visit made to Maryland, and closed by assuring Gen. Hancock that after we carried the State in October we would go down to Maryland and help redeem it from Democratic misrule. Dr. Porter, a descendant of the famous Porter family of Pennsylvania, and who had recently left the Democratic Party, was called for, and, in response, said he could make no speech, but he now thanked God every hour of the day that he had been reclaimed from Democratic bondage. Gov. Geary seized the Doctor's hands and welcomed him into the ranks of the Republican Party, while the vast audience shouted wildly with enthusiasm. Hon. Mr. Fleming was called for, and said although it was too late to make a speech, yet he felt compelled to say that he would willingly take Gov. Geary's place, and welcome any other Democrat who wished to follow Dr. Porter's example. Hon. David Mumma closed the meeting with one of his peculiarly forcible speeches, and the vast audience adjourned, with tremendous cheers for the whole Republican ticket. This has been, by all means, the largest and most enthusiastic gathering ever assembled within the walls of the Court-house. Mr. Boutwell speaks in Philadelphia to-morrow night.

The Business Men of the State United Against the Soreheads.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 26.—A gentleman who has just returned from an official tour through eight counties in North-western Pennsylvania fully corroborates the views expressed by Commissioner Douglas upon his return from the same section, to the effect that a large portion of the heaviest Democratic business and manufacturing establishments are using all their influence against Greeley, on the ground that his election would inevitably unsettle commercial affairs throughout the country. Another gentleman who has passed two weeks in the oil sections of Pennsylvania, in association with the largest operators there, reports that Greeley has comparatively no strength in that quarter.

SEIZURE OF A RAILROAD.

Gov. Smith, of Georgia, Seizes Thirty Miles of the Alabama and Chattanooga Road.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 26.—The thirty miles of the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad, in Dade County, Georgia, was seized, yesterday, by order of Gov. Smith, and the telegraph wires cut along the same section of the road. Under a decree of Judge Bradley, of the United States Circuit Court, two receivers had been appointed for the road, and in behalf of the receivers so appointed, J. C. Stanton had taken possession of the road and was operating it. The seizure of the section named was made, as is alleged, for the better security of the State's indorsed bonds. Negotiations are now pending looking to its release, but with little prospect of success up to this time.

The Republican National Committee Head-Quarters.

A delegation from the State of Arkansas waited upon Secretary Wm. E. Chandler, of the Republican National Committee, Fifth-avenue Hotel. The names of the gentlemen are Gen. S. W. Dorsey, Col. Henry Page, State Treasurer; Col. C. R. Montgomery, Attorney-General, and Mr. A. E. Sickles. Col. Page is renominated for his present position on the Republican State ticket. The mission of the delegation was to make arrangements for speakers in Arkansas during the campaign. They are sanguine that Arkansas will give a large Republican majority, and say that the statement of Horace Greeley, that 20,000 voters are disfranchised in Arkansas, is a lie.

"Employment Offices."

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Your correspondent, "A Perplexed Housekeeper," desiring to know the name of the intelligence office to which I referred, I beg to enclose to you the circular in question. All I can say concerning the practice of the office is this: Some months since I discharged a domestic for dishonesty and untidiness. Not long after I received one of these circulars, with a request to fill up the blanks. This was not a pleasant task to do. The girl was dishonest, but I had not the courage to volunteer to say so, and I certainly could not write otherwise. I therefore returned the circular, stating I would give verbal information to any party interested, but could not write it. In a day or two this domestic, whom I had discharged, was in another office, abusing the one which had issued the printed questions, asseverating that the former was not nice, had no real lady callers, and for this reason she had come to the latter, which, she said, was always full of ladies. I have not asked if she was dismissed from the office she condemned, but inferred so from the facts stated.

I should say, however, that, referring to the circular in question, I had no purpose of drawing attention to any particular office, but merely referred to it by way of illustration in making a suggestion to my fellow-sufferers.

Very truly, CLIMAX.

NEW-YORK, Wednesday, Sept. 25, 1872.

[Our correspondent incloses the circular, and we shall retain it in our hands. We have no doubt whatever as to the accuracy of all the statements made by our correspondent, but we cannot open our columns to a controversy concerning the management of individual "employment offices." A "Perplexed Housekeeper" may rest satisfied that the representations of "Climax" are strictly true.]

AMUSEMENTS.

Mr. Yates' Lecture.

To-night, at Association Hall, Mr. Edmund Yates, a novelist and general litterateur, as well-known here as in his native England, is to deliver a lecture called "Modern Society." The lecture was pronounced, we believe, for no fewer than 100 nights in London, and it is embellished by life-size cartoons from such famous hands as those of Leech, Frith and Marcus Stone. We do not doubt that Mr. Yates will receive a hospitable welcome, or that either in his capacity of writer of fiction or satirical lecturer, he will regret his visit to America.

Musical.

The third of the Rubinstein concerts occurs at Steinway Hall this evening. The programme is a fresh one. That of the first matinée, to be interpreted to-morrow afternoon, is especially fine.... The sale of seats for the season of Italian opera was commenced yesterday morning at the Academy of Music, and will be continued until further notice.

NEW-YORK.

Immense Meeting in Ithaca—An Eloquent Address by Hon. E. H. Roberts.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The largest hall in this place was again filled to overflowing to-night to listen to an address by Hon. Ellis H. Roberts. The meeting was presided over by Hon. F. M. Finch, who delivered a brief and eloquent speech. Mr. Roberts then for two hours held the large audience by one of the most eloquent, logical and convincing arguments heard here during the campaign. His eloquent tribute to the success of Gen. Grant's Administration, his indignant protest against the slanders put forward by the opposition, and his confidence in the ultimate success of the Republican cause, were received with hearty applause. Alluding to Vice-President Colfax's recent speech, he paid an eloquent tribute to that gentleman, and the others assailed in the Credit Mobilier slander. His speech has done great good here.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The auction notice for yesterday, Thursday, Sept. 26, involving the disposition, under a Supreme Court order in partition, of the valuable house and lot No. 18 West Fourteenth-street, south side, 270 feet west of Fifth-avenue, did not take place, as expected, R. R. Hazard, Jr., the auctioneer in charge, stating that, owing to the fact that the sale must be made for cash, instead of allowing sixty per cent. on bond and mortgage, as advertised, an adjournment until Tuesday, Oct. 8, had been concluded upon. The property will, on Tuesday, certainly be sold, and being in fee, instead of a leasehold, as is the case with most of the real estate in the vicinity, the transaction will attract attention. Nothing further, worthy of note, occurred yesterday. In reference to the proposed sale at Jersey City, by J. M. Gibson, unless postponed owing to the storm, a report will be made to-morrow.

The suburban auction held at Bayonne City, N. J., (Bergen Point,) by Jere. Johnson, Jr., assisted by J. M. Gibson, on Wednesday, Sept. 25, was an unqualified success, the attendance being large and all the realty offered being sold at very satisfactory figures. The property lying on Chestnut, A, and B avenues, including ten water fronts on Newark Bay, comprised eight acres of land, or seventy-seven plots, in all about 119 city lots. These plots were sold for $44,687 in the total, an average of $587 per plot, or about $375 per city lot. The water-fronts (fourteen city lots) brought $9,285. Full details, with names of purchasers, are appended. The auctioneers are to be congratulated upon the favorable results achieved. The sale at Maywood, N. J., (late West Hackensack,) in charge of Winans, Sands & Garrettson, held also on Wednesday, we regret to say was not as satisfactorily concluded, none of the property offered being disposed of. About 300 persons were present on the ground, and some 100 lots were knocked down at an average of about $85 per lot. The auctioneer, however, found that the owner of the realty placed a higher estimate upon the lots than the would-be buyers, and protected the same as fast as offered. He accordingly adjourned the sale under directions until Oct. 3.

For today three legal auctions are announced at the Exchange, as follows: Sale by James M. Miller of house and lot on First-avenue, 87 feet north of One Hundred and Twentieth-street; sale by Joseph McGuire of house and lot on Thirty-fourth-street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues, and adjourned sale by E. H. Ludlow & Co., of house and lot No. 75 Fourth-street, 75 feet west of Lewis street.

NOTICE.

SALE OF TIMBER BERTHS.

DEPARTMENT OF CROWN LANDS,
TORONTO, Aug. 1, 1872.

A sale, by public auction, of timber berths, on the north shore of Lake Huron, and north of French River, will be held at the Department of Crown Lands, Toronto, at 12 noon, on TUESDAY, the 15th day of October next. The berths to be offered for sale are projected townships, estimated at an area each of thirty-six square miles where the outlines are regular; each township to be put up as one berth and sold as such, and to be adjudged to the person bidding the highest amount of bonus per square mile therefor; payment for the same to be made on the day of sale, by depositing the amount of purchase to the credit of the Department of Crown Lands, in a bank authorized to receive deposits on account of the Government of Ontario.

All berths sold to be subject to correction with respect to area, under the first clause of the Crown Timber Regulations.

Licenses for Berths sold will be issued subject to the "Crown Timber Regulations" one month after date of sale, and payment of bonus and ground-rent for current season.

No deduction from area sold, allowed for water.

The Department reserves the right to one bid on each Berth; and also the right to grant special licenses to cut fuel on the Berths sold, for the supply of coasting steamers.

A map showing the Berths to be disposed of may be seen at the Woods and Forests' Office Department Crown Lands on and after the 15th inst.

E. W. SCOTT, Commissioner.

NOTE.—The area to be offered as Timber Berths is very extensive, embracing all unsold and unlicensed lands of the Province north of Lake Huron and north of French River, and west of the Indian Reserve on Lake Nipissing, to the eastern boundary of the townships of Awerna and Vancouglnet, extending north from the Indian Reserve, on Lake Nipissing, an estimated distance of twenty-four miles, thence due west to the north-east angle of the township of Vancouglnet.

Maps of the Territory are for sale by Messrs. Copp, Clark & Co., No. 17 King-st. East, Toronto

WILLIAM TRIST BAILEY, Auctioneer.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

Mr. Colfax's Reply to the Credit Mobilier Slanders.

A Clear and Explicit Denial and Refutation of the Gross Calumnies of the Greeleyites —Will the Defamers Retract?

The following is the speech in full of Vice-President Colfax, at South Bend, on Wednesday evening, a portion of which appeared in the TIMES of yesterday:

Let me detain you a few moments, my townsmen, while I touch a fabric of falsehood with the spear of truth, exposing the so-called "Credit Mobilier scandal," that you may see one of what worthless stuff campaign charges are manufactured. Not to put myself on the defensive. Far from it. In all my public life there has never been an hour when I would not have trusted a jury of my political opponents here to decide any charge affecting my honesty that the bitterest maligner could imagine or invent, or to render their verdict as to whether I could be bribed to cast any vote or support any measure my conscientious conviction disapproved. You are all my witnesses, too, that during twenty years of editorial life and speaking on the stump, I never sought to make you believe public men were scoundrels because I differed with them politically.

There are, my friends, three papers in the United States which, above all others, absolutely know, as I shall show, that bribing me to support Pacific Railroad interests is just as incredible as that I should need to be bribed to vote the Republican ticket. Seven years ago, with three gentlemen connected with and corresponding with the Chicago Tribune, the New-York Tribune and the Springfield Republican, I crossed the continent in a stage-coach, expressly that all four of us might see with our own eyes the proposed route of the Union Pacific Railroad, might decide as to its practicability, and might hasten its construction by using our influence, personal and journalistic, to induce capitalists to accept the liberal subsidies offered three years previously by Congress. From a letter written by Mr. Bowles to the Springfield Republican, dated at San Francisco, Aug. 20, 1865, and found on page 262 of his widely-circulated book, Across the Continent, I quote the following:

"Government bonds are loaned to it to the amount of sixteen thousand dollars a mile through the plains, and forty-eight thousand a mile in the mountains, besides which half of all the land each side of the road for twenty miles deep is donated outright to the Companies doing the work. * * * The Companies are further authorized to issue their own bonds to an equal amount to those granted by the Government, and secure them by a first mortgage, the Government loan taking the second place in security."

Mind you, my friends, Mr. Bowles is stating the offer of the Government, which was yet waiting acceptance by moneyed men.

On page No. 273 Mr. Bowles concludes this letter:

"Men of the East! men at Washington! * * * Lend now a few thousands of men and a hundred millions of money to create a new Republic; to marry to the nation of the Atlantic an equal, if not greater, nation of the Pacific."

I need not quote from my own numerous speeches, lectures and letters, nor from the editorial letters of Gov. Bross to the Chicago Tribune, and his lectures before Boards of Trade and capitalists to induce them to subscribe the "millions" of money alluded to by Mr. Bowles, for the great work, nor from Mr. Richardson's letters to the New-York Tribune. Their favorable influence in unanimating the enterprise is summed up in Mr. Bowles' dedication of his book, dated Dec. 25, 1865, four months after his letter, as follows:

"The railroad is indeed the great work of the day; the great want, the great revealer, the great creator, of this empire of ours west of the Mississippi. It is cheering to find that, since we went over the Plains, labor upon the eastern end of this road has had a new impetus; to learn that new elements of capital and enterprise have become engaged."

Mr. Bowles wrote truly. The appeals of these representatives and correspondents of the New-York and Chicago Tribunes and the Springfield Republican, with, perhaps, my humble aid, based on the personal knowledge we had acquired by our long and dangerous journey, was inducing men of wealth to accept the subsidy, offered at first by the Congress of 1862, and reaffirmed and improved by the Congress of 1864, two years afterward, both of which acts were supported and voted for by such distinguished Senators as Charles Sumner and Lyman Trumbull. But these very capitalists have been denounced ever since by many papers and politicians as not better than swindlers, for accepting what had been proffered by Congress with the heartiest popular indorsement, and finally risking their millions where others would not hazard their dollars. Having myself made more speeches, addresses and lectures in favor of the Pacific Railroad as a political, military and commercial necessity, than any other man in the nation, nothing could be more absurd and self-refuting than the charge that one who was its open friend when millions doubted its practicability, had to be bribed to favor its interests. Enemies, not friends, are those whom bribes seek out and control. You might as well say that a Methodist had to be bribed to advocate Methodism, or that an editor had to be bribed to support typographical interests. But, never having had in my life a dollar of stock of any kind that I did not pay for, I claim the right to purchase stock in the Credit Mobilier or the Credit Immobilier, if there is one; the Union Pacific, or Central Pacific, or Northern Pacific, or Southern Pacific, or Lake Shore, or South Bend and Plymouth Railroads; in oil wells or gold mines, promising immense dividends that sometimes fail; in printing offices or furniture factories; in banks or in water-works, just like any other American citizen or the rest of mankind. Nor do I know of any law prohibiting it. If there is a man out of all our forty millions of people who knows me, who believes I could be influenced a hair's breadth in private or public life by the purchase of any stocks in any company, I should not value his good opinion as worth any more than his evil one. I say proud to say, too, that in all my public life no man ever dared to make me a dishonorable proposition. Do I need to add that neither Oakes Ames nor any other person ever gave or offered to give me one share, or twenty shares, or two thousand shares, in the Credit Mobilier, or any other railroad stock; and that unfortunately I have never seen nor received the value of a farthing out of the two hundred and seventy per cent. dividends, nor the eight hundred per cent. dividends in cash, stock and bonds, you have read about every day for the past month, nor one hundred per cent., nor one per cent., nor the tenth of one per cent. I have said that if twenty shares of it could be purchased at par, without buying into a prospective lawsuit, it would be a good investment, if it was as valuable a stock as represented. And I have said that I would like to buy twenty shares at par, if attainable, in the Studebaker Wagon Company, or the Birdsell Clover Separator Company here; and I challenge either one of the two last companies to give me such an opportunity now or hereafter. But, never having been plaintiff or defendant in a Court of justice, I want no stock of any kind, at any price, with a lawsuit on top of it; not even with the prospective dividends of twenty-two thousand dollars, which, "I am free to maintain," neither these good eyes of mine nor this pocket-book have ever seen the first dollar of, although it is so positively asserted that I have been entitled to this handsome amount ever since four years ago.

Here I might stop. But some of these papers have been so anxious, day after day, to hear from these gentlemen, whom they would have been so quick to defend instead of to asperse a few years ago, that I must continue this exposure. I have determined that nothing that can be said, or charged, or insinuated against me in this canvass shall induce me to say a harsh word in reply, and you will notice, therefore, that I abstain from using language which the very mildest of you would employ if your neighbor had sought to blacken your character, day after day, as infamous.

The favorite correspondent of the present Chicago Tribune, Gath, was instructed, as he states in his recent letters, to investigate and write up for that paper the Credit Mobilier. I shall refer now to only one single paragraph out of his many columns so copiously printed in that paper with sensational head lines and largely copied from in the New-York Tribune. He charges that Speaker Colfax and Speaker Blaine kept Oakes Ames at the head of the Pacific Railroad Committee: an untruth; Ames having only been a member of it, and never its Chairman. I take the same paragraph he says:

"Ames carried through Congress a scandalous proposition by which the Government abandoned its first mortgage of this highway, and allowed the private mortgage bonds of the railroad to take precedence."

And this is reported editorially in the Chicago Tribune of last Wednesday. I have already shown you from Mr. Bowles' letter of August, 1865, that this was already the law before capitalists were induced by the influence of the representatives of the New-York and Chicago Tribunes, and myself, to accept this very proposition of Congress, and to risk, in what many deemed an impossible work, the "millions" Mr. Bowles appealed to them to invest. And this very proposition, which Gath denounces as scandalous, and the Chicago Tribune denounces editorially, was supported when passed by Messrs. Sumner, Trumbull and Julian, as well as by Mr. Ames and an overwhelming majority of Congress. Nor did Mr. Ames invest a dollar in the Pacific Railroad till after the letters of Gov. Bross to the Chicago Tribune, of Mr. Bowles to the Springfield Republican, and of Mr. Richardson to the New-York Tribune, had been published, more than a year, too, after this very enactment by Congress in 1864.

Gath says in this same paragraph of his letter that

"Ames was able, with the help of the most eminent men in the Republican Party, to collect from the United States the gross sum for carrying the mails over this road, while at the same time he never paid the interest on the Government bonds as it accrued."

The facts, so utterly at war with this charge, are that the railroad has never received, nor ever claimed, but half of "the gross sum for carrying the mails," the other half having been always retained and applied on the interest of the bonds—that Secretary Boutwell desired in 1870 to retain the whole, but the Senate Judiciary Committee, having been instructed to examine the question, decided that the Congressional charter authorized only half to be thus retained, and Congress so re-enacted. After twelve pages of debate in the Globe, the Senate so decided by 36 to 18, Senators Trumbull and Thurman both speaking and voting in its favor. This correspondent concludes this paragraph thus:

"In short, the Union Pacific Railroad first begged a loan from the United States of from $16,000 to $60,000 a mile, and then robbed it of the interest on the loan, forced the loan itself back to a contingent place, and pasted it over with another and a private loan of its own, and then swindled it out of the whole gross sum for the mail service."

These charges are very grave, and, if true, would blast forever the character of men capable of such conduct, and give color and confirmation to the original charge of bribery and corruption. The only answer necessary to them is, that not only does the Congressional Globe prove, as I have shown, their entire falsity beyond all contradiction, but the editors and proprietors of the Chicago Tribune know, of their own knowledge, that there is not a particle of truth in any one of these sweeping falsifications. What could have induced them to print them, even with all the excitement of a political canvass, is a mystery to me.

Let me ask you, now, if the public have not the right to demand from the editors and proprietors of these two great newspapers, the New-York and Chicago Tribunes, some personal explanations. Day after day their papers have been filled with innendoes and charges, some of which they happened to know, better than all other men, could not possibly be true, and nearly all the rest of which they knew their own files explained and disproved. Day after day they have sought to make the people of the United States suspect a number of their prominent public men, and the builders of the Union Pacific Railroad generally, as a band of thieves, scoundrels and swindlers, and they have demanded that those thus assailed "should be heard from." Well! they have heard a calm, dispassionate statement from one of those whom one of the Tribunes stigmatized as "the Twelve Apostles who sold out to the Credit Mobilier at $20,000 apiece." I submit, in sorrow for those who thus "bear false witness against their neighbor," that clearing their own skirts from the "scandal" of their course is the next thing now in order.

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

The Second Day's Proceedings—Address of Bishop Potter—A New Cathedral to be Erected.

The Episcopal Diocesan Convention reassembled at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in St. John's Chapel. The religious services at the beginning of the session were conducted by Prof. Olssen, of St. Stephen's College, Annandale, Penn., and Rev. J. F. Potter, rector of the Episcopal Church at Greenwood Works, Orange County, N. Y. Bishop Potter delivered his annual address. He announced that he had fulfilled most of the duties devolving upon a Bishop of the Episcopal Church. He referred to the death of a faithful servant, Rev. John David Wolfe, and paid a glowing tribute to his memory and virtues. The record of the Church for the past year, he said, showed a steady growth in numbers, means and methods, and a larger proportion of persons had been confirmed than for many previous years. He pointed out the need of a more thorough education of the children in regard to the tenets of the Episcopal Church, and urged the members of the Convention to devote their best energies in this direction. He said that a blessing would descend upon the labors of the Church if fifty or one hundred acres of land could be purchased at a distance from the great cities, upon which schools, chapels, workhouses, and the necessary modes of recreation could be erected for the beautiful instruction of the children gathered from the rut of the slums and alleys. Alluding to the fund for the support of aged and infirm preachers, the Bishop said there was every reason to believe that the amount would soon be sufficient to provide adequate provision for the comfort and welfare of those members of the clergy who were physically incapacitated from remaining in the service of the Church. Among other contributions, he announced that a lady connected with St. Paul's Chapel, in this City, had lately given $500 towards the permanent fund. In accordance with the recommendation of the Archbishop of Canterbury and other eminent English clergymen, the Bishop hoped that the Convention would adopt a resolution setting apart the 20th of December next as a day of fasting and prayer on behalf of the work of missions throughout the world. In conclusion, Bishop Potter alluded to a subject which he said had engaged the thought of leading minds in the Church for many years—the necessity for erecting a cathedral in this City. He had no doubt that the erection of such a building would bring forth good fruits, and well repay the Church for the necessary outlay. He thought that the want of a cathedral was sadly felt, and was confident that such an edifice would shortly be built.

At the conclusion of the Bishop's address, a resolution was passed appointing a committee of seven to take into consideration the recommendation in regard to the day of prayer for missions.

The following resolutions were then offered by Mr. Nast and adopted:

Resolved, That a committee of fifteen be appointed to take measures for the establishment in the City of New-York of a cathedral of the diocese; that such Committee have power to frame and apply for a charter of incorporation, and to receive subscriptions toward the purchase of a site and the erection of the cathedral, church and other buildings in connection with the same.

Resolved, That the Bishop of the diocese be, ex-officio, a member of said Committee, and its Chairman.

Mr. S. B. Ruggles also presented the following resolutions, which were referred to the Committee of fifteen mentioned above:

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to consist of the clergy and of the laity, to unite with the Bishop in selecting a proper site for a cathedral in this diocese, and in procuring the means for paying for the same, and also any legal act of incorporation needed for holding the property.

Resolved, That, in the judgment of the Convention, all subscriptions for the object in question should be made upon the express condition that neither the site nor any building to be erected thereon shall at any time be encumbered by mortgage or any permanent debt.

Queens County Fair—The Exhibition and the Premiums.

The Queens County Agricultural Fair, yesterday, notwithstanding the rain, was attended by not less than 5,000 people, and much satisfaction was expressed at the exhibition, which it has been decided to continue until Saturday. Superior specimens of short-horn, Alderney and native cattle, fine, middle and long wool sheep, and large and small breeds of swine are shown. All the leading breeds of poultry are also represented. The fruit and vegetable classes are very full, as are also the lists of miscellaneous articles usually shown on such occasions. Premiums amounting to nearly $5,000 have been awarded.

The exhibition of horses was deferred until today, when, in addition to the regular premiums, a special one of $100 will be given for the best matched pair of road horses. The same amount is also offered for the best stallion with four of his colts, to be driven four in hand. Special premiums, ranging from $10 to $100, are offered for saddle and road horses, and one of $50 for best three teams from one town. Special premiums of various amounts are also offered for other stock.

The Dock Commissioners—The Scott Monument.

The Commissioners of the Department of Docks met yesterday, John T. Agnew presiding. Mr. John Roche obtained permission to extend the bulkhead between Ninth and Tenth streets, East River, 100 feet. Permission was granted to the Gold and Stock Telegraph Company to erect a cable box on the slip at the foot of Jackson-street, East River. The report of the Audit Committee on bills to be paid, amounting to $27,783 32, was read and adopted.

The application for the use of the derrick of the Department by the Scott Monument Committee, for the purpose of removing the monument from Pier No. 20 North River to the Central Park was granted, and instructions issued to Capt. Johnson, of the Department, to superintend its removal. The meeting then adjourned.

A Railroad Quarrel.

The disagreement between the New-Jersey Central and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Companies, which has been rumored since their consolidation, has assumed a definite form since the declaration of a quarterly dividend by the Central Company. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company have declined to ratify the payment of a dividend, for the reason that in the opinion of its Directors the companies have not earned enough to justify one. It is also said that the Central Company violated its own express agreement by declaring a dividend after the Joint Committee, to whom the matter had been referred, "with power," voted against the same. After the declaration of the dividend, Mr. Moses Taylor, who was a director in each Company, resigned his seat in the Central Board, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Company commenced proceedings in the New-Jersey Court of Chancery to restrain the payment of the dividend.

Suicide in a Public Reading-Room.

Henry Bremer, a jeweler, committed suicide by shooting himself through the brain in the reading-room of the Young Men's Christian Association at Newark yesterday forenoon. Bremer entered alone and sat meditating, while three or four other occupants of the room were engaged in reading. Suddenly he placed to his head a large pistol and fired. Portions of the skull and brain were carried to distant parts of the room. After the shot the pistol fell from the lifeless hand, and the dead body sat still upright in the chair. Bremer was nearly fifty years of age, and had been a regular visitor at the rooms of the Association for three years past.

FORRESTER'S FATE.

The Famous Prisoner Returns to Joliet Prison.

Secrets of the Nathan Case—Where Did the Dog Come From?—Tim Lane's Immunity from Justice—Was Forrester Nathan's Murderer?

William Forrester, the noted criminal who was charged with the murder of Mr. Nathan, wearying of confinement in the Tombs, consented to waive his privilege of habeas corpus, and was taken to Joliet State Prison, Illinois, yesterday. His case, one of contradictory phases from the beginning, amply proves the utter incapacity of the Detective Police. Their vaunted "dead sure" proof was torn to shreds by Mr. Howe, Forrester's counsel, and a beggarly array of disjointed suspicions placed in the stead of a continuous and complete chain of circumstantial evidence pointing to the prisoner's guilt. It is idle to say that Forrester's career has been an honest one, equally idle to assert that he knows nothing of the Nathan murder. In the one instance he has been and is now a thief; in the other he, with a few others of the same stamp, know more concerning the terrible crime than all the Police and the machinery of the law, and at this point the action of the authorities naturally began. Forrester's name was given the authorities by an associate of thieves and the former keeper of a thieves' resort in this City, who, by doing so, secured the release of his brother, a panel thief, from State Prison. This man mentioned the name of George Ellis, a former companion of Forrester, then serving a term in Sing Sing for burglary. He also desiring release, informed Superintendent Jourdan that Forrester, himself and Tim Lane, alias "Red Tim," went to Nunda, on the Erie Road to "crack" the White Bank there. It being necessary to break a window glass, Forrester, not liking to spoil the butt of a fancy pistol he had, went into a ship-yard near the bank and brought from there, as Ellis alleged, the "dog" with which Nathan was murdered. The burglars were disturbed and fled, hiding their tools under a railroad bridge. But Forrester brought with him to this city "the dog." Tim Lane has not been arrested; he walks the streets of this city today, simply because he is a pet of the detective force and a "stool-pigeon" or informer for a couple of officers. Detective Farley, who went to Nunda and found the hidden tools there, never brought "the dog" to the ship-yard in Nunda to have it identified. Forrester's examination proved a farce. A conscientious witness named Keenan deposed to seeing Forrester enter the basement of Nathan's house at 7¾ o'clock on the evening of the murder, when in reality the man seen was the night watchman, who was trying the basement door. The prosecution having no other witness to offer, abandoned the case, and Mrs. Nathan paid Detectives Claryoe and McElfresh, of Washington, $2,500 for the capture of Forrester, against whom nothing could be proved. Forrester was to have been brought before Judge Leonard in the Supreme Court today. For two hours on Wednesday Capt. Irving and Superintendent Davies, of Pinkerton's Agency, were with Forrester in the Toombs, endeavoring to convince him that he would be better treated if he were to waive his writ of habeas corpus and go back to Joliet Prison without delay. He "weakened," to use his own words, yesterday morning, and did so. He sent for Mr. Hummell, of the firm of Howe & Hummell, who represented him since his arrest, and signed the following document:

NEW-YORK CITY PRISON, Sept. 26, 1872.

I hereby authorize and request my counsel, Mr. Wm. F. Howe, to withdraw the writ of habeas corpus issued by the Supreme Court of the State of New-York, and allowed by Hon. Geo. G. Leonard, one of the Justices thereof, on the 23d of September, 1872, directed to the Warden of the City Prison, commanding him to produce my body at said Supreme Court, Chambers, on the 27th day of September, 1872.

WILLIAM FORRESTER.

Mr. Hummell proceeded to the Supreme Court and withdrew the writ. Immediately after, Warden A. W. Edwards, of the Joliet Prison; Mr. Henry W. Davies, Superintendent of Pinkerton's Detective Agency, and Capt. James Irving, of the Detective Squad, were escorted into the main corridor of the prison by Warden Finley. At that moment a TIMES reporter was conversing with Forrester. In answer to a question referring to the inducement he had received to compensate him for the withdrawal of the writ, Forrester said: "Gladly as I would tell you anything, I cannot speak on that subject. It is private. I consider that it is best for me to return to Joliet Prison without any useless quibbling, for I feel I would have to go anyhow. My counsel, Mr. Howe, did all he could for me, and cleared me of the murder charge, but I do not think that his ingenuity or his explanations could save me from that requisition. Of course I feel somewhat regretful at my capture. Why shouldn't I, with thirteen years hard labor in prison before me. I would say one thing, however, about John Connors, in New-Orleans. I see by the papers that Connors is said to keep a thieves' resort. He offers nothing of the kind. He keeps a respectable boarding-house. I am only allowed to write a letter once in two months, but you will hear from me. I cannot say anything about the offer published in your paper; and, furthermore, from the looks of things now, I think I never will. Yes, I'll take good care of myself. Good bye."

The offer was to the effect that if he received a pardon from the Governor of Illinois he would adduce such facts as would satisfy the public as to the real murderer of Mr. Nathan. Some designing and interested persons who bear favoritism in their mouths have questioned the truth of the statement. Forrester made the offer to Detective McDevitt, of Washington, when he was arrested, and Detective McDevitt came to this City yesterday morning and had an interview with Forrester regarding the matter. On the arrival of Warden Edwards Forrester came out of his cell, dressed in a suit of light gray clothes. He bowed to Warden Edwards and stood there awaiting orders. Mr. Davies handcuffed him, and, after shaking hands with Keeper Kennedy, he walked through the yard of the prison and the hall into a carriage which was in readiness at the Franklin-street entrance to the Tombs. He rapidly driven away as Mr. Davies said, to Jersey City. Instead of going to New-Jersey, Capt. Irving ordered the carriage to be driven as rapidly as possible to the Twenty-second Precinct Station-house, in West Forty-seventh-street, and placed the prisoner in the charge of Capt. Killilea, with the strictest injunctions to keep him safely, and to take the proper precautions to prevent any attempt of the prisoner to escape. Forrester was placed in a strong cell, and a policeman was placed on guard at the door. No person but the officer in charge was allowed access to the prison, and every precaution was taken to prevent the prisoner making an attempt at escape. Forrester remained quietly in the cell in which he was confined until 7 o'clock, when Capt. Irving and Detectives Bennett and Clapp arrived at the Station-house in a carriage. Forrester was taken from the cell, the handcuffs placed on his wrists, he was placed in the coach. Capt. Irving took his seat beside the prisoner, and the detectives seated themselves opposite to him. The carriage was driven to the Grand Central Depot, and the prisoner was taken into the depot through a private entrance without attracting any attention. Forrester was placed on board a sleeping-car attached to the Pacific express-train. On this car Mr. Edwards, the Warden of the Joliet prison and two of Pinkerton's detectives were in awaiting to receive him. Capt. Irving formally delivered Forrester over to Warden Edwards. Forrester was then placed on a seat in the compartment which had been specially engaged for the through trip to Chicago, and was handcuffed to one of Pinkerton's men who sat beside him. Fetters and chains were placed on his ankles. The prisoner bid farewell to Capt. Irving, and thanked him for the kind treatment he had received from the New-York Police during his sojourn of nearly three weeks in this City. So quietly had all this been accomplished that no person about the depot except the officers and the conductor of the train knew that the man who had become so notorious through his misdeeds was on the train. At precisely 8 o'clock the train moved out of the depot, and Forrester was at length on his way to the prison where he is to serve out thirteen years of imprisonment after having enjoyed nearly four years of liberty. Sergt. Armstrong, of the Depot Squad, had been notified, and stood ready to lend the aid of his force if their services had been required.

The National Election Law—Duties of Supervisors and Deputy Marshals.

The following is a digest of the provisions of the new national election law, in relation to the appointment of Supervisors and deputy marshals, and their duties, especially as it applies to this City:

Upon application of two citizens the United States Circuit Court Judge appoints two supervisors of election for each election district, who shall be of different political parties and able to write and read the English language. The supervisors must attend at the places of registry and attend to their prescribed duties.

The United States Marshal is empowered, upon the written request of two citizens, to appoint special deputy marshals in each election district, in such numbers as he may see fit in his discretion. The duties of the deputies are to support and protect the supervisors of elections in the discharge of their duties, preserve order at the places of registration and at the polls, prevent fraudulent registration and voting, or fraudulent conduct on the part of any officer of election.

The neglect or refusal on the part of any supervisor or deputy marshal to fully perform his duties is made a misdemeanor. The supervisor and deputy marshals are to receive $5 per day each for each and every day they shall have actually been on duty, not exceeding ten days.

Hon. John I. Davenport, who has been appointed Chief Supervisor has received a large number of applications from the various political factions in this City to have names of persons presented by him to Judge Woodruff for appointment to the positions of supervisors in the various election districts, and Mr. Davenport states that he expects to have full lists from most of these political factions, each faction presenting one or more candidates from each election district in the City, before next Monday, when all the names are to be called off in open Court before Judge Woodruff, and any persons who choose may make objections to any name appearing on the lists.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE HOSPITALS.

The Tenth National Bank Grabbing City Moneys—A Return to Ring Tactics—A Simple Explanation of a Clumsy Canard.

The Tenth National Bank was, during the year 1871, a depository of several departments of the City Government—of the Department of Charities and Correction and the New Court-house Commission, notably among others. During the muddle into which the "Ring" had brought our finances, this bank (with what authority may be questioned) allowed these departments to overdraw their accounts to the extent of $277,000 for Charities and Correction, and $245,000 for the New Court-house Commissioners. (Norton, Coman and Ingersoll.) When Controller Green was called upon to take charge of the Department of Finance, his movements were not a little embarrassed by these large overdrafts in excess of appropriations, and he very prudently insisted upon a thorough examination into the accounts before liquidating the claim.

The bank some three months ago applied for a mandamus to compel the Controller to pay over this money, which Judge Barrett denied. The case of the Department of Charities and Correction is in some points inextricably connected with it that action has been delayed until this decision can be obtained.

The Department of Charities and Correction meantime was furnished means to carry on its operations by depositing funds with the Tenth National Bank. In violation of a distinct understanding, the Bank has now adopted the arbitrary method of seizing these deposits of this Department to settle its claim, thus attempting to throw the onus of the consequences upon Controller Green. This seizure of moneys occurred more than two months ago, and the Controller has ever since kept the Department of Charities and Correction supplied with money; the Commissioners of Charities and Correction immediately after this seizure discontinued their deposits with the Tenth National Bank.

There is opportunity for economy in the administration of the Department of Charities and Correction, and when, in the general curtailment of expenses, the appropriation to that Department was reduced by the Board of Apportionment, it was by no means intended that such curtailment should fall upon the sick, disabled, poor and helpless, but rather upon the sinecures of large pay and small service. The Controller has not the least idea of allowing any hospital or dispensary to be closed or charity abandoned, in consequence of this singular canard of the Tenth National Bank, reports to the contrary notwithstanding. The impropriety of the departments of the City overdrawing their bank accounts now is apparent. They should have kept within the appropriations last year, and not have violated one of the first rules of commercial life: "Never overdraw the bank account."

The Sappho-Dauntless Match on the Harlem River.

The match race between the Sappho and Dauntless Clubs was decided yesterday afternoon over a three-mile straight-away course on the Harlem River. The Sapphos had the steamer Catlin, and the Dauntless the Tiger Lilly, to carry their members and friends over the course. The above two Clubs are the youngest in the "New Settlement," and deserve a great deal of praise for the spirit and energy shown thus far. The boats and crews were as follows:

Sappho—E. B. Pinkney, bow, 112 pounds; Warren Arthur, 114 pounds; H. M. Knapp, 128 pounds; W. S. Devoe, stroke, 128 pounds. Shell, 17 by 39, built by Tom Fearon.

Dauntless.—F. W. Peckwell, bow, 135 pounds; John McCarthy, 143 pounds; Charles E. Knapp, 149 pounds; Joseph Livingstone, stroke, 125 pounds.

They started at 5:51, on the last of the flood, from the Powder-boat, a little above Fourth-avenue Bridge, to finish at Morris' Dock, above High Bridge, three miles. The Dauntless went to the front within a furlong of the starting point, both crews rowing wildly but rowing well. At the Central Bridge the Dauntless led by two lengths, but the Sapphos rowed a game stern race, and when their opponents made another bad point in steering, they crept upon them, and passing through High Bridge, lapped them. When within a half mile of the finish the boats were bow and bow. Some one on shore here fired a gun, which the stroke-oar of the Dauntless mistook for the signal to finish, and therefore ceased rowing. The Sappho rowed to the end of the course, winning the race handsomely in 20:53. The latter rowed sliding seats and their opponents stationary. The Judges were: For the Sappho, Eben Lowe; for Dauntless, F. J. Engelhardt; referee, John C. Babcock. The Gramercys were out with a barge and gig, and a four-oared shell crew of the Athletic Club were also on the course.

The balance of John Kyle's regatta will come off on Wednesday next.

Parade of the American Mechanics in Newark.

The United Order of American Mechanics yesterday made, at Newark, the grandest demonstration of the kind that has ever taken place in this country. Great preparations had been made for an imposing parade, and, despite the heavy rain, not less, it is estimated, than 7,000 men, in regalia, were in line. They represented councils from every city of importance in the State, and large representations were present from New-York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia. The line formed on Centre-street at 1 o'clock, and, preceded by the National Council of America, the members of which were in carriages, marched through the principal streets of the City. No less than fifty-two councils were in line, some of them—such as the Brooklyn delegation—presenting no less than 350 men. As they marched, all in the regalia of their order, they presented an extremely imposing spectacle. The visiting councils were escorted to the trains, and left Newark for their homes at 4 o'clock.

A Pair of Youthful Thieves.

Joseph Sproules, aged fifteen, and James Dillon, aged eleven years, arrived in this City, on Sunday last, from Chicago, having run away from home, after stealing $1,000 from the father of Dillon, who is an employe of the Chicago and Rock Island Railroad. Chief of Police Kennedy, of Chicago, telegraphed to Inspector Dilks, and the lads were arrested on their arrival here. They were brought to Police Headquarters, and, on being searched, $479 were found concealed in their clothing. Chief of Police Kennedy, of Chicago, has been notified by telegraph, and, it is expected, will send on for the young thieves.

Probable Homicide.

A shooting affair came to light at Hoboken yesterday, which is likely to lead to fatal results. Two Germans, Anthony Koopman and Herman Stemmerman, both residents of Newark, met at the Half-way House, on the meadows between Jersey City and Newark, on Saturday night. Both men were intoxicated and became quarrelsome, when Stemmerman struck Koopman. The latter had been shooting on the meadows, and had a loaded shot-gun with him. On being struck, he raised his gun and fired at Stemmerman, wounding him, it is believed, fatally. Yesterday a warrant was secured from Justice Cutter, and Koopman was locked up to await the result of the injuries inflicted on Stemmerman.
